DENNISON WORKERS RUN PLANT

The six million-dollar corporation of the Dennison Manufacturing Company, with a huge factory in South Framingham, and offices in Franklin street, Boston, has been turned over to the control of the twenty-four hundred employes. It was announced today, in the details of the most radical profit-sharing plan ever undertaken by a big corporation.

The full control of the concern is turned over to the employes. Only the preferred stock, with a more or less fixed income, is retained by the original owners of the company.

This plan was accomplished by the dissolution in the Supreme Court of the old Dennison Manufacturing Company.

The Dennison company, known as the Dennison tag makers, was started by the Dennison family in 1844.

The details of the reorganization of the company were announced by Henry S. Dennison, treasurer and a director in the old company, but whose position as manager now depends on the wishes of the employes.

The old stockholders, with holdings amounting to $4,500,00, will have no voice in the control of the company, unless the employes fail to maintain a reasonable rate of profits by their management. These stockholders are entitled to eight per cent. on their holdings, but not more.

PROFIT SHARING PLAN.

The voting stock, or the control of the company, is vested now in the 309 or so employes who receive as a yearly salary $1,200 or over—that is.

Bryan Decides Against Johnson

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Jack Johnson, defeated world's champion heavyweight pugilist, will not be given an American passport when he leaves Cuba. This announcement was made today by Secretary of State Bryan. He said he had instructed William E. Gonsales, American Minister at Havana, to refuse a passport to the pugilist. This will not prevent Johnson from going to Europe, but will handicap his movements abroad.

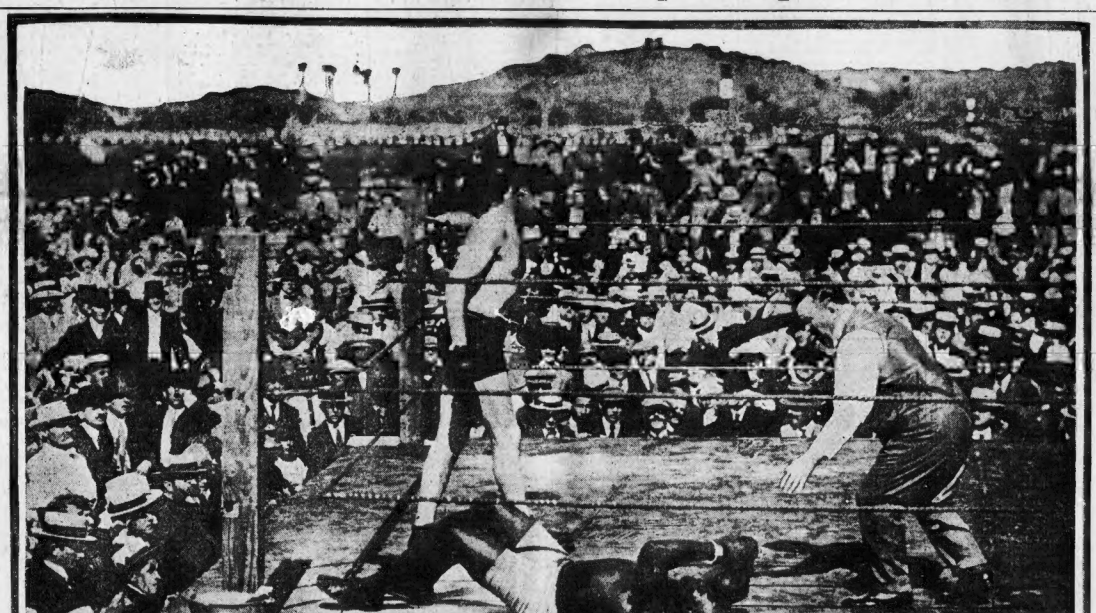
First Photograph Published in Boston of Jack Johnson's Knockout by Jess Willard in Championship Battle at Havana



Damon Runyon, the Boston AMERICAN'S expert, who was at the ringside of this battle, described the knockout as follows:

"And while the finish was obvious, no one looked for it so soon. At the bell in the twenty-sixth round, Johnson stumbled out of his corner. Willard met him with that lifting smash in a neutral corner, the blow driving through the negro's guard. Johnson was badly hurt and dropped both hands completely, but quickly pushed them up again before him.

"He backed over into Willard's corner, where Willard feinted as if to again whip his right into that paunchy cushion across the black man's middle. Johnson once more lowered his guard, trying to get away, and the next instant the massive gloved right fist of the Kansan crashed into his black jaw.

Johnson dropped flat on his back, without scarcely staggering. Even Referee Jack Welsh seemed stunned with surprise when the big black toppled over, but he quickly began counting over the dark form that lay with face upturned to the sun of a dying afternoon, and just as the withered hand of the old referee tolled off the finish of a champion the crowd made a wild rush for the ring, with the Americans in the van."

BRITISH ACCUSE U. S. MAN

LONDON, April 9.—The British authorities allowed it to become known today that Anton Kuepferle, a naturalized American citizen, has been arrested and is soon to be put on trial as a German spy. He has already had a number of hearings. The trial is awaiting the arrival of a witness from New York.

According to authorities here, Kuepferle's trial is expected to "conclusively prove the truth of the repeated charges that the United States is the chief base of the German spy system abroad."

Kuepferle was one of three men bearing German names who were arrested as spies. The others gave names of Miller and Hahn. They are accused of communicating military and naval information to continental addresses by means of letters written in invisible ink.

Kuepferle recently arrived in England from New York and since his arrival has been under surveillance.

Miller claims to be a British subject, although his parents are naturalized Germans. Hahn is understood to be a German citizen.

The men are being held incommunicado and will probably be arraigned on the charge of espionage at the next sitting of the High Court.

Wide ramifications of German espionage in England are reported already disclosed.

The revelations by Richard P. Stegler, who was sentenced to jail in New York for his connection with the false passports, have an important corollary in the present case. Kuepferle, who is engaged in the wool business in New York, landed at Liverpool and almost immediately traveled to Ireland, yet within five days he had accumulated so much information that he considered his mission ended and attempted to leave England for Holland to deliver his information to responsible chiefs of the German intelligence department.

DELAYED BY SUBMARINES.

It happened unfortunately for him, that the night he selected to leave, the Folkestone Flushing steamship service was temporarily suspended, owing to the activities of German submarine and hence he fell an easy captive in London. Whether if the channel service had been normal Kuepferle would have been able to escape is questionable, but it must be realized that Scotland Yard had little time to work on the case, owing

GERMANS RETAKE BELGIAN TOWN

LONDON, April 9.—Today's official reports of war operations indicate that the great battle in the western theatre is continuing with unabated violence from the Woevre region to Flanders.

German troops have again established themselves upon the west bank of the Yser in West Flanders, driving the Belgians out of Drei Grachten, according to an official announcement from Berlin. The Germans captured one hundred privates, two officers and two machine guns.

This is the second time the Germans have occupied Drei Grachten in ten days, having been driven out by Belgian artillery fire early this week. The Germans also claim the capture of French trenches in Champagne district.

Berlin says that the French attacks in the Woevre district continue without any progress occurring to the attacking forces. At several points the allies' positions were bombarded with incendiary shells in retaliation for the shelling of French villages behind the German lines.

GERMANS REPULSED.

According to this afternoon's communique, issued at Paris, night assaults by the Germans against the British army in northern France, and violent counter attacks against the French army in the Woevre district, have both been successfully repulsed.

The attacks against the British forces were delivered on Wednesday night and Thursday morning. Trenches captured by the French at Eparges in the Woevre district were so choked with German dead that the French did not occupy them.

Two counter attacks by the Germans in that sector were repulsed. When they took the German position in the Ailly forest the French captured six machine guns and two trench mortars.

Veterans from the seasoned army of General von Kluck are being sent into the Woevre district (between the Meuse and Moselle Rivers), to check the drive against the German left wing, according to reports made by aerial observers at Verdun.

Believing that the position of the Germans east of Verdun is critical, General Joffre gave orders for an unceasing series of fierce assaults, and during the past two nights there has been no let-up in the fighting there. Beneath the glare of "star bombs" and the flash of powerful searchlights night fighting for the possession of trenches has gone forward. The object of the French is four fold:

1—To press back the German left wing, in order to cause a retirement of the German armies on the Aisne and Oise rivers.

2—To relieve the St. Mihiel-Metz line of German communications.

3—To lessen the German pressure at Verdun and establish a French position nearer to Metz.

4—To dislodge the Germans from the only position they hold on the west bank of the Meuse south of Verdun.

E. P. Magruder Dies in Serbian Hospital

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The death of Ernest P. Magruder, of Washington, D. C., Red Cross surgeon, stationed at Gevgeli, Servia, was reported to Red Cross headquarters here today in a cablegram from Dr. Reynold M. Kirby-Smith, in charge of the hospital unit at Belgrade. Dr. Magruder was stricken with typhus while at Gevgeli and was moved to the hospital at Belgrade where he died on April 3.

Body of Baby Is Found in a Box

SPRINGFIELD, April 9.—The body of a baby, about three months old, was found in a box in the Boston and Albany yards, West Springfield, today. It was wrapped in a Boston newspaper. The police are investigating.

D. D. D. In Hospitals; Standard Skin Remedy

How many hospital patients have been soothed of their fiendish itch, of the scorching pain of skin disease, by the famous D. D. D. Prescription for eczema, a soothing fluid, washed in by a nurse's hand!

A SUPERVISING NURSE (name of nurse and institution on application) writes regarding a patient: The disease had eaten her eyebrows away. Her nose and lips had become disfigured. Since the use of D. D. D. her eyebrows are growing, her nose and face have assumed their natural expression."

Doctors, too, use D. D. D. in private practice. DR. GEO. T. RICHARDSON (Dept. D) says: "I have no superior to anything I have ever found. Soft and soothing, yet a powerful agent."

To do the work, D. D. D. Prescription must be applied according to directions given in the pamphlet around every bottle.

And it certainly takes away the itch at once—the moment the liquid is applied.

Druggists of standing know D. D. D. and keep it always in stock. A generous trial bottle for 25 cents. Also 50 cents and $1.00. Note that the first dollar bottle is guaranteed to clear your case or your money back promptly. Ask your druggist today for D. D. D. Also for D. D. D. Soap. Or write for free trial bottle, D. D. D. MILLION FIGHT IN THE CARPATHIANS

PETROGRAD, April 9.—The gigantic conflict between the Russian and Austro-German armies in the Carpathian mountains, in which more than 1,000,000 men and 6,000 guns are engaged, is drawing into its decisive stage, according to dispatches from Warsaw.

The Russians are advancing over a fifty-mile front from the Topla river to Uzsok pass, but fighting is in progress over a battle line 100 miles long. Operations in Poland have been relegated to secondary importance, as both the Russians and the Germans have withdrawn all their available men from the Polish arena of hostilities to strengthen the contending hosts in the Carpathians.

Having taken Smolnik, the Russian forces of Grand Duke Nicholas are now in a position to launch a drive against the rear of the Austrian army, which is struggling desperately against the reinforced Russian columns at the Galician end of the Uzsok pass.

An extended movement has been begun to cut off the eastern wing of the Austrian army under General Boerovitch by the Russian troops that have been poured through Dukla, Lupkow and Roster passes.

Fighting in the Carpathians is being carried on under tremendous difficulties. The spell of favorable weather mentioned in official dispatches has given way to snow and cold fogs, which render artillery operations extremely difficult.

Despite the natural handicaps, however, the Russians are continually increasing their pressure. The Russians have the advantage of more troops than the enemy, consequently the Austrian soldiers are on the verge of complete exhaustion from the constant fighting which has been carried on by day and by night.

The success of the Russians in the Beskid ranges has caused another Austrian retirement in that region and Russian aerial scouts report much activity at Gummence, indicating that the Austrians are preparing to move their base from that place.

Once the western foothills of the Beskid Range is crossed, the Russians will pour their forces into the plains of Hungary.

On the border of Bessarabia and Bukowina the Austrians are fighting desperately in the forlorn hope of compelling the Russians to weaken their armies in the Carpathians by sending reinforcements, but all reports from that region state that the Russians are more than holding their own.

AMERICAN HELD AS GERMAN SPY

to the short time the man had been in this country.

It is reported that when Kuepferle was arrested extremely vital information was found in his possession. He was equipped with all the paraphernalia which modern espionage regards as essential, such as reports, invisible ink, codes, addresses, instructions, etc., thereby laying before the authorities the most complete plan of German espionage which England has yet discovered.

It may open the eyes of American authorities to a realization of how brazenly and successfully German agents are using the United States as a base for the utilization of spies in England when it is stated that every one of Kuepferle's movements from the moment he landed at Liverpool until just before he was arrested, had been carefully mapped out before he sailed from New York.

He knew just where to go in every place he visited. It was like a melodrama. At certain places at a certain time he would make a certain sign and would meet certain people and receive certain information. It can be imagined how thorough the German spy organization is in Great Britain when it is stated that in five days Kuepferle, who so far as known had never before been in England, was able to consider his mission successfully accomplished.

It was originally intended that his final hearing should be held this week, but Kuepferle pleaded that a certain witness in New York was essential to defence. The authorities immediately held up the trial until that needed witness will have time to arrive from New York. The date of the resumption is tentatively fixed for this month.

British Newspapermen Fined.

LONDON, April 9.—Charles Dyson, a reporter, was fined $25 for supplying news to the press calculated to be of use to Germany, and Edward Newman, editor of the Southern Times, was fined $50 for publishing a report of similar nature.

YOU OWE A DEBT TO BELGIUM

"The work of Belgian Relief in New England has settled into that second stage wherein those people with real fortitude, perseverence and love of their kind show the full depth of their sentiment; the others drop away. For it is no good—no good at all—to keep these people alive until April 1st if they are to starve after that date. If we do that the whole effort has been wasted. We merely postpone a tragedy that it may become more deeply tragic. If we are to save these 7,000,000 helpless people in Belgium we must persevere to the end."—N. E. Belgian Relief Committee.

"At the risk of being considered importunate I am going to venture telling you that more—MUCH MORE—is needed, and New England's hand of mercy is stayed we are faced with the calamity of a famine under conditions entailing misery such as the world has never known."—HERBERT CLARK HOOVER, Chairman Belgian Commission for Relief.

"A contribution to the fund is the payment of a debt, and not a matter of charity. I therefore make not an appeal but a claim on Belgium's behalf which she in too generous to make for herself."—George Bernard Shaw.

French Barque Destroyed by a Submarine

LONDON, April 9.—A French barque, laden with grain and bound for Sunderland, England, was torpedoed by a German submarine in English Channel, off St. Catherine's Point, on Thursday, according to information received here today. The submarine attempted to destroy the British steam tug Homer, which was towing the barque, but the tug escaped.

When about fifteen miles off St. Catherine's Point, Isle of Wight, the captain of the Homer sighted the submarine approaching. The tow lines were cast off and the Homer steamed full speed toward the submarine in an attempt to ram it. The submarine fired a torpedo which missed the tug by about a yard. Then the Homer fled and at the same time it could be seen that the barque was enveloped in smoke.

FRED FAY SCORES BAY STATE POLICY

Fred Fay, international organizer for the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway employees attacked the policy of the Bay State Railway Company at the hearing before the board of arbitration today in Chipman Hall.

Organizer Fay was wrought up to much excitement when Attorney James H. Brett, counsel for the road, asked that he be furnished with the total amount of money paid by the men to the sixteen divisions of the amalgamated association.

"This is the most unreasonable, unjust and unfair requirement made. I have attended many hearings, I have never heard this request before," said Mr. Fay.

"It would require much work and cannot be produced without much trouble and expense.

"This is one of the things that the company is trying to do among other things of putting the men to extra expense.

ACCUSES COMPANY.

"I accuse this company during these hearings of trying to put non-union men against union men and union men against non-union men. Many things have taken place in these hearings which exhaust one's patience and endurance. There are one hundred and one things that I would like to refer to in this connection."

Attorney Swift then interrupted and said:

"We were asked to furnish the fees paid to the lawyers and gladly gave them. I do not ask to have the sums, the individual men paid into the association. All I want is the total and I think that Mr. Fay's characterization of my request is unjustified for, the same adjectives might just well as be applied to his request of the company about lawyer's fees."

Further testimony relating to the expenditures of the Bay State Street railway are expected today, following the admission that $200,000 was spent in the past four years for legal services other than in connection with damages claims, and that of the $200,000 much was paid to attorneys who had previously been prominent in legislative halls.

Among these are Burdett & Wardwell; Currier, Rollins, Young & Pillsbury; Cutler & James; Innes & Turtle; Nutter & King; Paul R. Blackmur; James F. Jackson; Ryan & Pingree; and many others.

In the firm of Burdett & Wardwell, which received $42,000 in the four years, is J. Otis Wardwell, more familiarly known as "Jake" Wardwell, who figured also in the Boston Elevated arbitration proceedings as receiving $25,000 a year from the elevated.

LOOP $111,652.

In the firm of Currier, Rollins, Young and Pillsbury, which received $111,652.24 in four years, is Guy W. Currier, formerly a State senator.

The firm of Innes & Turtle is made up of Charles H. Innes, a former State senator, and William Turtle, also once a State senator. This firm has received $7,000 in the last four years.

Cutler & James, which drew down $4,023 in four years, is composed of Judge Samuel R. Cutler of the Chelsea district court, and Henry W. James, until this year city solicitor of Chelsea for nine years.

Ryan & Pingree, a well known Haverhill law firm, received $2,000 in the last four years. This firm is composed of John J. Ryan, who resigned as judge of the Haverhill district a year ago, to become chief counsel for the Massachusetts Northeastern Street Railway Company, and Ransom W. Pingree, city solicitor for Haverhill in 1912-14.

Nutter & King is one of the oldest Brockton law firms. They received in 1912, $500. Richard Nutter was president of the Brockton City Council in 1912, and Charles Carroll King has been associate justice of the Brockton district court for ten years or so.

Paul R. Blackmur, who was formerly city solicitor of Quincy, received $1,576.75 in two years. James F. Jackson, for several years chairman of the old Railroad Commission, received $27,390.68 in 1912-14.

These figures were furnished the arbitrators by the treasurer of the road, Charles H. Rockwell, who will resume his testimony today.

Lime Combats Tuberculosis.

"It is difficult to escape the conviction that lime starvation and lime assimilation are the real issues behind the masks of vulnerability and resistance in tuberculosis," writes Irn Van Gieson, M. D., in the May 11, 1912, issue of the New York Medical Record."

Dr. Van Gieson is eminent in his profession, and his assertion that lime assimilation is the "real issue" in resistance to tuberculosis bears the stamp of authority.

Ordinarily lime is not easily assimilated nutritionally, but Eckman's Alterative is one preparation containing it in such form and combination as to insure assimilation by the average person.

This is one reason for its success in many cases of tuberculosis which apparently have yielded to it and others which have been benefited through its use.

Our experience based faith in this remedy is shared by a large number of men and women, who say they owe health, strength and life to it. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try.

If your druggist is out of it, he can get it, or you can order direct from us.

Eitel Removed to Norfolk Yard

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels today announced the removal of the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich from Newport News to the Norfolk Navy Yard, where she will be interned formally today and remain indefinitely.

The Secretary stated that as Rear Admiral Beatty, commandant of the navy yard, has suggested that the yard was somewhat crowded, it might be found necessary to remove the Eitel later to some other locality.

PROSPERITY KEYNOTE OF BANK EXAMINERS' REPORT

"Profound Hopefulness Is Prevalent in Almost Every District," Statement Says.

Marked improvement in business conditions throughout the country and unmistakable signs of returning prosperity are the features of the report the national bank examiners, made public by the Treasury Department at Washington.

Eighty of the ninety examiners in the United States rendered a personal report. "Agricultural conditions are generally excellent and commercial lines, with comparatively few exceptions, are enlarging their activities, mainly through an increased demand, but in some cases preparation for activity is expected to develop with the coming of good weather. Manufacturing is on the increase and those industries having orders for supplies from foreign countries continue especially active.

"Further orders have been placed for cars and rails by the railroads and some large contracts have been made for structural iron for large buildings in different portions of the country."

The statement attributes depression to unusual conditions abroad, but says that business here has been stabilized through the application of economy.

SOUTH IS GAINING.

"The South," it continues, "is showing marked improvement. The sale of cotton is active at advancing prices, with the result that all business in that section is feeling a steady and pronounced improvement. The prospect for large crops generally are excellent and there will be greater diversification. The States adjoining the Missouri river and the Mississippi river above St. Louis enjoyed exceptional prosperity during the past season, and the present prospects are that the coming season will yield even better results.

"The western States and the Pacific States are showing a general improvement. The lumber industry is slowly recovering in these States and the number of tourists exceeds expectations. Mining is resuming on a larger scale, and the crop conditions are excellent.

DEPOSITS INCREASE.

"The New England and Middle Atlantic States, and portions of the Central West, although generally reporting an improvement, seem to feel the past depression to the greatest extent. Farmers, however, generally have had satisfactory results; but manufacturing, with the exception of that to fill foreign orders, is feeling the improvement to the least extent. There is improvement, however, in most lines. The bond market has become active on a higher level. Savings banks deposits are increasing and generally banks have an abundance of money. The tendency has been for all to curtail needless expenses and, as a rule, there is a lessened demand for money.

"The reports from New York and other large cities show the trend of business conditions, outside of farming communities:

CITIES SHOW GAINS.

"New York—There has been no time in the last three years that merchants and manufacturers were such small borrowers, indicating that their present capital is sufficient for their need and that borrowed money cannot be invested profitably by them.

"Boston—Strong feeling of optimism and business generally regarded is improved.

"Chicago—Present conditions dull, immediate outlook hopeful in tone. Business showing slight improvement.

"San Francisco—Business people are in better spirits. Present and immediate outlook better and steadily improving.

"New Orleans—General situation regarded as gradually improving.

"Of the seven New England districts reporting, none show a decline in business conditions, while three districts show improvement. Maine is the only portion reporting real depression, while other reliable interests report the situation is improving. In Rhode Island the jewelry business only is badly depressed, all other business indicating gains.

"The lines which show the greatest activity are those with orders for war supplies, which include shoes, woolens, coarse cottons, arms, ammunition and metals. Textiles, lumber, steel and iron show improvement. The machine and shoddy business is very good, and there is a fairly good business in plated wares and copper utensils.—From report of bank examiners to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Dancing Begins at Arena Tomorrow

The Summer dancing season at the Boston Arena will begin tomorrow evening. The Arena affords the lovers of modern dancing the largest and most complete dancing surface in New England.

Many innovations will be presented at the Arena dansants this season. The largest gathering that ever attended a dance in this city is expected at the opening night and the management has made elaborate preparations for the occasion. The spacious auditorium has been newly decorated for the opening. The Arena has secured the cleverest dancers to give exhibitions and tomorrow night the Opera Tango will be seen in Boston for the first time. Miss Helena Sweeney and Zenas Crocker will present the correct interpretation of this dance which involves seventeen different steps.

Lasting Beauty

¶ Beauty of character, which attracts and holds interest, lies deeper than the skin. But a clear, vivid complexion, sparkling with health and radiant with life, is an asset that every woman in these modern days should have and can possess.

¶ For three thousand years one preparation—Cold Cream—has been used and appreciated by womenkind. When properly used it is the most effective preparation for beautifying and whitening the skin and removing sunburn, tan, freckles or dust.

¶ Its pleasant, cooling properties are grateful to irritated surfaces and to chapped lips and hands. For cleansing and relieving the pores of the skin, it is far more preferable than soap and water.

REXALL THEATRICAL COLD CREAM

—is pure, clean and fragrant. No cold cream is of higher quality and none more pleasant to use. It is free from animal oils and all other substances that would tend to promote a growth of hair or down on the face, and, as it contains nothing of an injurious nature, can be used freely at all times by man, woman and child.

¶ Those best able to judge of the quality and value use Rexall Theatrical Cold Cream in preference to the many brands available.

TAXES ON CREDIT BARRED IN DUDLEY

DUDLEY, April 9.—Credit has stopped in the tax collector's office. Hiram J. Raymond, tax collector, will no longer take fifty cents as part payment of a poll tax.

Hereafter, taxpayers have found their tax collector lenient. If the tax bill was ten dollars Raymond has always been willing to take fifty cents or one dollar on account. Now he says he will not accept instalments.

Lynn Man Seeks $5000 for Loss of Wife's Affections

Horace V. Hatch of Lynn has brought a $5,000 suit in the Suffolk County Superior Court, alleging that his wife's affections were stolen by Ernest L. MacLellan, his cousin.

Hatch is a shoe worker and has recently been made the defendant in a divorce suit brought by Florence Gray Hatch, who says he was cruel and abusive. He denies this and says that his wife has brought suit because her love was alienated by MacLellan. The latter boarded for a year at the Hatch home.

ASK JURY TRIAL ON THAW SANITY

NEW YORK, April 9.—What is believed to be a new move for freedom by Harry K. Thaw was the service on District-Attorney Perkins and Attorney-General Woodbury, with copies of an order, signed by Supreme Court Justice Newburger, requiring them to show cause why Harry K. Thaw, who has been in the Tombs since he was acquitted of a charge of conspiracy on March 13 last, should not have a jury trial on the question of his sanity.

The order is issued in connection with the habeas corpus writ now pending before Justice Newburger. Thaw's attorneys have served notice that they will be prepared to proceed with the habeas corpus hearing on April 19.* The order to show cause is returnable April 12.

When the application for the jury trial was made it was at first taken as an indication that Thaw's counsel felt certain the Appellate Division would deny that Thaw's application now before it, to be permitted to return to New Hampshire, but Abel F. Smith, Jr., of Thaw's counsel, said such was not the case.

"We have a perfect right to carry on these two proceedings simultaneously," Mr. Smith explained. "One is absolutely independent of the other. Of course, we have no idea what the decision of the Appellate Division will be, and this application for a jury trial is made at this time because our time for making it in connection with the writ of habeas corpus will expire in a day or two."

The order of Justice Newburger was issued on an affidavit made by Mr. Smith, in which he sets forth that "Harry K. Thaw has never had a trial by jury as to his sanity or insanity subsequent to the alleged murder of Stanford White, and the determinations and inquiries as to his sanity made in the past without the aid of a jury have resulted in directly conflicting conclusions."

Whether Thaw is ordered back to New Hampshire or not, five days probably will be granted for the settlement of the order, thus giving either side an opportunity to go to the Court of Appeals. It is partly owing to the belief that a jury trial might succeed in releasing Thaw before a decision could be had from the Court of Appeals, that Thaw's counsel are pressing the present proceeding.

GIRL ASKS $25,000 IN LOST LOVE SUIT

A denial that he ever promised to marry Miss Mary O'Brien, twenty, of Dorchester, has been made by Ernest A. Poole, manager of a Boston electrical concern, against whom the girl has filed a $25,000 breach of promise suit.

Mr. Poole claims that his only acquaintance with the young woman was to give her assistance at times when she was in need. He says the girl knew his wife by sight, although Miss O'Brien asserts she did not know he was married.

Capper Addresses Jordan Employes

An address on "The Value of Athletics" was delivered by Captain Francis W. Capper of the Harvard track team before many employes of the Jordan Marsh Company, at the first banquet of the newly organized athletic association. Guests of honor were Eben D. Jordan, president of the company; Frank W. Coombs, a director, and Walter A. Hawkins, general superintendent. Mr. Jordan spoke in high terms of the enthusiasm displayed by the gathering, and said he hoped the occasion was a forerunner of growth and, in the course of time, of an athletic field and a clubhouse.

CLERK INDICTED IN TANZER CASE

20 Per Cent. Bonus for 2,500 Employes

WILMINGTON, Del., April 9.—All salaried employes of the Du Pont Powder Company have been granted a cash bonus of 20 per cent. of their salary for a year. About 2,500 persons are affected.

The company recently granted a 20 per cent. increase in wages to its 15,000 payroll workmen at plants throughout the country.

Founder of 'New Thought' Is Dead

Abner Barker Magoun, founder of a "New Thought" religion in 1895, is dead at the home of his niece, Mrs. George Paine, at No. 735 Union street, Rockland. He was seventy-nine. In 1896 he preached in nearly every town in southeastern Massachusetts on his "New Thought" religion. His aim was the unity of all creeds.

MOURNERS CROWD ARLINGTON ST. CHURCH AT GUILD FUNERAL

Curtis Guild, former Governor, former ambassador and retired major general, but above all a beloved citizen of this community, received the final tributes of affection and respect from his fellowmen at a funeral service in the Arlington Street Church this noon.

Rich and poor were present. The assembly which filled floor and gallery, with many unable to get into the church, reflected the far-reaching activities of Curtis Guild's life.

The State was represented by a large delegation of officials, headed by Governor Walsh. Mayor Curley and city officials represented the city. Military honors bespoke the prominent part Curtis Guild had played in the martial affairs of the State and nation.

RUSSIAN ENVOY PRESENT.

The Imperial Russian government, at whose royal court at Petrograd Curtis Guild had been as Ambassador from this country, was represented at this service in the person of George N. Bakhmeteff, the present Russian Ambassador at Washington, also by Joseph A. Conry, Russian consul at this port.

Thus the dignities which the dead had held and the offices he had filled were indicated by the many officials present.

Several State House and City Hall offices were closed in further token of respect.

But, more significant even of the great affection of Bostonians for their departed townsman was the number of unofficial mourners, men and women, who came to the church, many without hope of getting in, so great was the crush. The floor was reserved for delegations, so only the 300 gallery seats were available for the general public. But, when these seats had been quickly filled, many stood on the gallery stairway.

There were a number of women thus standing. While the throng was waiting for the arrival of the funeral cortege from the house, the sound of weeping testified to the overflowing sorrow.

100 POLICE ON DUTY.

The church doors were opened at 11 o'clock for the delegations. The balcony doors were opened for the public and were closed as soon as there was no more room. A detail of 100 police was on hand.

In the Executive delegation from the State House were Governor Walsh, Lieutenant-Governor Grafton D. Cushing, Adjutant-General Charles H. Cole, chief of staff; Thomas F. Connolly, the Governor's secretary, and these members of the Governor's staff: Majors William J. Casey, William H. Dolan and William J. Keville and Captains Charles T. Dukelow, William R. Stearns, Frank M. Gunby, Dana T. Gallup and James D. Coady.

The Executive Council was represented by Councillors Daniel E. Denny of Worcester, Herbert P. Waggatt of Everett, Edward Frothingham of Haverhill, Guy A. Ham of Milton and Henry C. Mulligan of Natick. The party was accompanied by William L. Reed, who was Governor Guild's personal messenger during his three administrations.

LEGISLATIVE DELEGATIONS.

The legislative delegation included: President Coolidge of the Senate and Senators Martin Hays and James F. Timilty of Boston, William A. L. Bazeley of Uxbridge and Wilton B. Fay of Medford, and Speaker Cox of the House, and Representatives John H. Sherburne of Brookline, Joseph L. Barry of Lynn, Arthur N. Newhall of Stoneham, Fitz-Henry Smith, Jr., Arthur E. Burr, Edward F. McLaughlin and George J. Wall of Boston and Matthew J. Carbary of Milford.

Troop A, National Lancers, led the march from the house on Marlboro street, with the hearse and bodybearers following, and next the carriages containing the former Governor's relatives and friends. The non-commissioned officers of the Sixth Regiment, in which organization Curtis Guild served as private and adjutant, carried the body into the church.

The service was conducted by Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham and prayer was offered by the Rev. George A. Gordon, Organist Whelpley and the Apollo quartet led the singing of "Still, Still, With Thee," "Jerusalem, the Golden" and "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

Following the service the body was removed to the hearse and the procession to Forest Hills Cemetery was formed. The cortage proceeded down Arlington street, where Troop A was dismissed.

SING EX-GOV. GUILD'S FAVORITE HYMN AT HIS FUNERAL TODAY

JERUSALEM THE GOLDEN.

Jerusalem the golden, with milk and honey blessed,
Beneath thy contemplation, sink heart and voice oppressed.
I know not, O I know not, what social joys are there!
What radiance of glory, what light beyond compare.

There stand those halls of Zion, all jubilant with song,
And bright with many an angel and all the martyr throng.
The Prince is ever with them, the daylight is serene;
The pastures of the blessed are decked in glorious sheen.

There is the throne of David; and there, from care released,
The song of them that triumph, the shout of them that feast,
And they who, with their Leader, have conquered in the fight,
Forever and forever are clad in robes of white.

'BIRTH OF NATION' OPENS ON LEE DATE

Today's fiftieth anniversary of General Robert E. Lee's surrender to General U. S. Grant at Appomattox has been fittingly selected for the first performances in Boston of D. W. Griffith's war epic, "The Birth of a Nation," in which this historic scene is shown. The performance this evening is for invited guests only, the first public representations at the Tremont Theatre taking place tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Mr. Griffith has reproduced every detail in his motion picture of the great event celebrated today. The room in which the document is signed is a facsimile of the actual Wilmer-McLean house interior at Appomattox. Donald Crisp and Howard Gaye in the roles of Grant and Lee respectively bear a marked resemblance to the great generals. The costuming is exact—Grant in fatigue clothes, dusty and travel-stained, and Lee, the vanquished, scrupulously arrayed in full dress.

General Lee signed the surrender papers by means of quill and ink-stand he had borrowed from a young officer's kit for as it happened there were no writing materials in the Wilmer-McLean home. This historical fact is for the first time brought out by Mr. Griffith in his play.

Lee then handed the document to an aide, who placed it in Grant's hands. The two generals thereupon rose, met in the centre of the room and shook hands. There have been several paintings of the historic scene, but never, it is believed, had a stage representation of the living figures and action been made before Griffith's putting it into the present play.

Pebeco Tooth Paste

has the power of neutralizing mouth acids. By protecting the tooth-enamel against the "tearing-down" tactics of "Acid-Mouth" Pebeco takes the big step forward in tooth preservation. Use one-third of a brushful only.

Manufactured by
LEHN & FINK, New York
Canadian Office:
1 and 3 St. Helen St. Montreal

"Acid-Mouth" Has a Lot to Say

Whether you keep your teeth for life or not depends very largely upon the absence or presence of "Acid-Mouth." Don't overlook the fact that in the care of the teeth "Acid-Mouth" has a lot to say. Science tells us that "Acid-Mouth" causes 95% of all tooth decay.

Check "Acid-Mouth" and you have a good chance to keep your teeth for life.

"There was a time — not so long ago, either — when I thought that all dentifrices were pretty much alike. But when I found that cavities appeared much less frequently when I used Pebeco, I naturally changed my mind. Now it's only Pebeco for me."

HAIR COMING OUT?

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After a few applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. For sale by Rikers-Hynes and all good Druggists.—Advertisement.

BOTH SIDES AGREE TO U. S. REQUESTS

WASHINGTON, April 9. — That American diplomacy is gaining results desired from both sides in the European war was indicated today by favorable developments following representations made to Great Britain and Germany.

First, Berlin, in reply to the United States note demanding indemnity for the sinking of the American ship William P. Frye by the auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, announced that it was prepared to pay in full for vessel and cargo, as required by the Prussian-American treaties of 1799 and 1828.

The case, however, it was stated, must be considered formally by a prize court, although an adverse ruling would not prevent settlement with the owners of the Frye under the stipulations of the century-old conventions.

Great Britain today so far capitulated to the demands of the United States regarding interference with neutral shipping, as to give strong assurances through Sir Richard Crawford, commercial attache of the British Embassy, who conferred with Secretary Bryan's special assistant, Chandler Anderson. It was stated by Sir Richard that Britain was disposed to do anything possible to facilitate American commerce.

Furthermore, the United States received word that France and Britain would respect the rights of persons who had made application to become American citizens. This was assured by the release of August Piepenbrink, a steward on the American steamer Windber, who was taken off by the French cruiser Conde on November 13.

JOIN BIG EASTER PARADE ON SUNDAY

Don't be disappointed if the blizzard delayed Easter for you. With the aid of the Weather Man it is to be observed next Sunday.

A very practical genius conceived the idea of turning back the calendar a week and pretending that Easter would dawn anew. He told his friends and his friends told their friends and the idea grew like a snowball rolling down hill.

It wasn't hard to discover why. Human nature was at the bottom of it. People as a class dislike to be cheated, or deprived of a thing without warning.

There didn't seem to be a ghost of a suspicion that it would rain on the regular Easter, after nearly forty days of drought, and nobody dreamed that it would snow, and what is more, develop the worst storm of the season.

A SAD SURPRISE.

But the unexpected is ever happening, and it happened in chunks last Saturday and Sunday. Small wonder that the girls were disappointed when they found the weather entirely unsuited for their new Spring dresses and straw hats. And even the men folks deferred putting on new suits. It was a storm outfit day.

But every cloud has its silver lining, according to the poets. The bright side of last Sunday's weather was the opportunity afforded of postponing the Easter pageant until a more favorable Sunday. And the favorable date, according to Local Forecaster Smith, will occur April 11, which will be next Sunday.

On that day young and old will appear in bright new raiment as expressive of the change of season. All Boston will be given another chance to tog out for the postponed Easter. The storekeepers have co-operated in making this departure a success. The very smartest Spring styles and fabrics brighten show windows and counters. Sales of Spring finery have been brisk. The delayed Easter parade promises to be enhanced by the extra week of preparation.

The weather is to be fair and balmy with just enough suggestion of June to make people long for a change of attire. Experts claim a change of raiment helps drive away Spring fag and lassitude. According to this line of deduction a change of attire so satisfies the mind of the wearer that it gives him, or her, new thoughts and ambition. In other words a new suit is better than medicine at this time of the year. It is the same with a new hat and new shoes. Properly dressed, a man, woman or child feels more satisfied, and satisfaction brings contentment and contentment improves the health and makes the world seem brighter.

A DIFFERENT STORY.

That accounts for the Easter custom of appearing in up-to-date raiment. This custom received a jolt by the sevety knot gale and snow last Sunday. Next Sunday will be different. So get your new things ready and don't look for any rubber-boot and snow-shoe weather. If meteorological dope is right, next Sunday will be an Easter worthy of the name, even if it happens to be seven days late, which will make Spring clothing all the more appropriate.

Mrs. Key Files New Asylum Suit

Mrs. Frances Duer Key of Beacon street, Back Bay, who recently won a long fight in the Massachusetts courts to be free to do as she wishes with the income of her $300,000 estate, has filed suit in the New York Supreme Court against two men and a woman she charges with causing her to be committed to the Waverly Insane Asylum, New York despatches today say.

Mrs. Key seeks $100,000 damages against W. Kintsling Post, Henry Barnes and Mabel I. Barnes. Mrs. Key says in her complaint that in order to obtain her removal from the Waverly Insane Asylum to the Channing Sanitarium, she signed a paper. This paper, she says, was a consent to the appointment of a special guardian for her.

For months, according to testimony given in Boston, Mrs. Key lived in her Back Bay mansion with only a table, a bed and a few chairs for furnishings. She said she wanted to prove herself capable of taking care of her property "without the enforced assistance of lawyers, doctors and other pests."

Germans Take 5,510 Guns from Allies

BERLIN, April 9.—Since the beginning of hostilities the German armies in the western and eastern theatres of war have captured 5,510 cannon from the allies, according to information given out by general headquarters today. Many of the disabled guns have been repaired at the Krupp works and are being used against the allies. The report enumerates the following captures: Belgian, 1,840 guns; French, 1,300; Russian, 850; British, 60.

AFRICANS TO GET BOSTON SPIRITS

The four-masted schooner Orleans, will sail from the Hoosac docks, Charlestown, in a day or two with 200,000 gallons of rum for the natives of the West Coast, Africa.

The liquor is in 1,500 hogsheads and 200 kegs. It will be sold to dealers on the African coast.

'Rat and Mouse' Week Planned for Boston

"Rat and Mouse Week" in Boston has been set forward to include the last week of April instead of the first in May, as originally planned by Mrs. Robert S. Bradley, chairman of the Rat and Fly section of the Women's Municipal League. She asks every citizen who would like to take part in a general campaign against rats and mice and other disease-carrying pests to communicate with her secretary at No. 6 Marlboro street.

Tom Wilson, America's Greatest CUSTOM TAILOR
NOW GIVES EVERY MAN CREDIT
$1.00 A Week
"This Is An Age of Credit"—Tom Wilson.
It's About Time
To Look Like a Custom-Tailored Man
WHAT'S to stop you—Tom Wilson says this is an age of credit, we're all getting it—Why not you? By all the rules of modern business you are entitled to credit. Come in and get it and look like a custom-tailored man. You have been waiting for a long time to have your clothes made to order. Come in and get properly measured for you Spring and Summer Clothes. It's the only way to dress — Have the suit made for you.
Tom Wilson Now Makes
Clothes To Measure
On Credit No Extra Charge
Get the idea out of your head that I am going to charge you extra because I open an account with you. Believe me—I want your business and I want to satisfy you. I will make you a suit, any style you like, made as well as any tailor in Boston can make it; give you your choice of materials, patterns, linings, trimmings, etc., and deliver it to you any day you want it; and charge it to your account, which I will be pleased to open with you at any time.
"Tell the Clerk to Charge It"
I AM the One Tailor in this country who "took a chance" with the people and offered to make any man a suit or overcoat to measure, and gave him his own time to pay for it in his own way. And I didn't raise my prices, either, when I decided to give every man credit. I'll prove that I didn't, this way—Look in my windows, pick out any style goods you like; get a sample of it from my salesman, take it all around Boston to other tailors and get their cash price on it. If any tailor beats me on price, just give him your order, or, if you want to test me another way on price and material, get a sample and price from any other tailor and bring it to me. I'll make up a suit or coat as low as the other fellow from his material and give you all the credit you want. If you don't know much about materials bring a friend who does—I'm willing to let your friend be my judge—"Can you beat it?"
"THAT'S ALL" Tom Wilson
Styles and Prices
I'll give you New York Broadway styles, Philadelphia, Chicago and Boston styles—there isn't much difference. You've seen the style pictures on the walls in tailor shops. Well, Tom Wilson has them all—anything you see anywhere, I have it, and on prices I range as follows: $12.50, $15.00, $17.50, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00, up to the imported goods from $35.00 up. Sincerely, I don't think there is a tailor in town that gives you any better run for your money than Tom Wilson.
Why I Buy From The Mills
I don't want a dozen or more woolen jobbers, wholesalers and commission men to make a profit on my customers. Remember, I have more than a dozen big tailoring establishments scattered all over the United States. It takes a lot of fine woolens to supply my trade. I buy more cloth from the mills than a great many wholesalers in this city. This gives you an idea of the magnitude of my business and the amount of money I can save you on cloth and trimmings alone. The following are a few of the big woolen mills that weave cloth for Tom Wilson's customers:
LYMANSVILLE MILLS, Providence, R. I.
WATERHOUSE MILLS, North Adams, Mass.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Bethlehem Steel held the centre of the stock market stage at the opening. It started at 110, a rise of 5, advanced to 116, within half an hour had extended to 118 and it was soon selling at 108.

"The men who advanced it," says a New York commentator, "are financially a powerful outfit, with one or two exceptions, as any in the market place. The latter are playing with blue chips in a game in which little speculators are barred by margin requirements. Therefore Bethlehem could lose 20 points and more by a sudden dip without causing any general distress."

Prices worked upward in New York during the first fifteen minutes and most active issues in Boston made gains. In Boston early advances included Alaska Gold ⅛, Allouez ¼, Boston & Maine ¼, Butte & Superior ¾, North Butte 2⅜, New Haven ½, Shannon ⅛, Calumet & Arizona was off ¼, Copper Range ⅝ and Osceola ¼.

Reports of increase to show gains in New York were General Motors 2¾, Goodrich 2½, Maxwell Motor 1¾, U. S. Rubber 1¾, Westinghouse 2, Mexican Petroleum 2, American Can 1¼ and U. S. Steel 1⅛. Utah Copper was up 1, American Smelting ⅞ and Amalgamated ⅝. Most rails made fractional gains, including Atchison ⅝, Missouri Pacific ⅜, New Haven ⅝, Northern Pacific ¼, Southern Pacific ⅛ and Union Pacific ⅝. Reading was up 1⅜. Lehigh Valley declined ⅝ and "Katy" ⅜.

Markets were active at the start, but trading slackened towards the end of the first hour.

BUSINESS GETTING BETTER.

From all quarters comes the report there is more confidence in trade circles and while current statistics may not suggest any great improvement in business, yet the impression almost universally prevails that it is steadily getting better. If the upturn has begun it should be remembered that it will take a little time before this movement imputus. Once to give the movement momentum will fairly under way the momentum will become great and sweep everything onward towards the boom that is inevitable. If the pendulum is to swing as far this way as it went in the other direction.

BIG WAR ORDERS.

It is understood in Chicago that the French government has placed with the Dupont Powder Company a $100,000,000 order for powder, which gives a hint as to how fast the war is burning up money. The Dupont corporation is credited with having made huge profits. This is indicated by liberality towards its employes. About 2,500 who are on salary have been given a cash bonus of 10 per cent. on their salaries and 18,000 wage earners in its employ have been granted an increase of 10 per cent. to pay.

NEW YORK'S FOREIGN TRADE.

If domestic business in New York was as good as that city's foreign trade its bank clearings would be above instead of below the figures of recent years. For the week ended yesterday exports totalled $28,095,093 and imports $13,661,184. This was a big gain in exports over the previous week and a large decrease in imports. Yesterday's exports showed a comparative increase of $2,458,506 and imports a decrease of $1,658,553.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

On the London metal exchange today spot copper advanced 12s. 6d. and futures 12s. 6d.

It is said that the six plants now in construction in this country for the manufacture of coal tar derivatives upon which colors for varnish, cloth and other products are based will save this country $12,000,000 a year which has hitherto been expended with Germany.

Very few speculators were wise men to the extent of following the star of Bethlehem in its ascension to 117.

NIELSEN SINGS IN TEMPLE CONCERT

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Alice Nielsen, who played an important part in the Boston Opera Company's successful five years in this city, returned last night for a concert at Tremont Temple and was greeted by more than 2,000 people. The occasion was the seventh and final concert of the Tremont Temple Concert Course. Miss Nielsen was assisted by Rodolfo Fornari, the baritone of the Boston Opera, and Emiliano Renaud, the French pianist.

Miss Nielsen was heard in a program calculated to try her powers as a concert artist to the utmost. She was, however, in excellent form and her voice was never sweeter or purer than last night. The clear crystal like quality of her tones has often been remarked and is still one of the most striking features of her singing. Miss Nielsen's personal attractiveness, and our long experience upon the concert platform make her a very fascinating performer, and one who awakens an audience to unusual warmth.

She sang last night a group of French songs by Debussy, Hahn, Duparc and Massenet with fine skill. Then she turned to rollicking Irish ballads with as deft and sure a touch, and delivered the passionate and beautiful aria Un Bel di from "Butterfly" with splendid tone and finished art. The charming duet from "Pasquale" with Mr. Renaud went finely.

Fornari is a more effective concert baritone than opera artist. His voice is beautiful in quality and well trained, and his bearing upon the platform is assured. He sang the Eri Tu very creditably and the Figaro song from "The Barber of Seville" with matchless skill.

Emiliano Renaud is a French pianist of more than exceptional talent and his numbers were enthusiastically received.

Among those who crowded about to congratulate Miss Nielsen after the concert were Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan, Miss Dorothy Jordan, Mrs. John L. Gardner and others.

'MME. BUTTERFLY' GIVEN BY ABORNS

"Madame Butterfly" at popular prices is a distinct novelty, and a large audience at the Boston Theatre last night demonstrated that it was an opportunity much appreciated. The Aborns have drawn upon the resources of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, for effects, which make their presentation of Puccini's American opera acanically enjoyable, and their company gave its accustomed adequate rendition.

"Madame Butterfly" is so much a one dominant character opera that the title rote is a most exacting one, calling throughout for constant demands upon the forces of the prima donna. These demands were fully met by Miss Estelle Wentworth. Her pleasing presence, admirable voice and dramatic artistry combined to the favor of the audience, in the artlessness of the betrothal to the American naval officer, in her patient, devoted waiting for his return, and in her dignified conduct on discovery of his duplicity when she meets his American wife, she was always effective. Her singing was full of charm, and her clear, high notes were rendered with control and finish. The second act, the wife's night vigil, was given with poise and full dramatic effect.

Thomas Chalmers as the United States consul proved himself a genuine actor, and Henry Taylor as Lieutenant Pinkerton made the most of a role which is at all times unpleasant and unpopular.

The insistent orchestral strains of "Madama Butterfly" call for the most accurate leadership, and Josef Pasternack conducted his orchestra through the difficult mazes of Puccini's score with fervor and precision.

Without the live baby, which law excludes in Boston, the finale is necessarily flat, as compared with productions elsewhere. The meagreness of the blossom-strewing in the second act gave the impression that the land of wisteria and cherry blooms was suffering from a drouth. The American flag on which the curtain used to fall in higher-priced productions was omitted, which is just as well, for the story of man's perfidy that breaks the heart of "Madame Butterfly" does not reflect much credit upon the Stars and Stripes.

Autos and Barn Burn.

The large barn of A. C. White on Summer street, Bridgewater, was destroyed. Two automobiles and a motor boat were also destroyed.

TAKE MAINE 'BAD MAN' AFTER FIGHT

CARIBOU, Me., April 8.—Emery Ward of Limestone is in jail awaiting arraignment on charges of making his friends dance at the point of a revolver, of rocking the town with a dynamite explosion and of wounding Policeman George Graves while resisting arrest at Port Fairfield. Ward, who is twenty-one, gave this district the liveliest twenty-four hours it has known for years. And it is all said to be the result of unrequited love.

According to the story told by Limestone constables, young Ward became much worked up over an affair of the heart. Wednesday night he made some of his young men acquaintances dance by discharging revolver bullets toward their feet, while they hopped wildly.

Then Ward set off a box of dynamite in a fit in the rear of the village stores. The explosion shattered most of the window glass in the town. Then Ward left town.

Seven-Year-old Clifford Mercier

Read His Story

During a recent interview, Mr. Joseph Mercier, of 253 Walker street, Lowell, Mass., said to the writer: "My little boy, Clifford, seven years old has taken Father John's Medicine whenever he had a cold or cough, ever since he was two years old, and it has never failed to give good results. He used to cough badly at night and he does not do it when we give him Father John's Medicine. We believe that Father John's Medicine gives him increased weight and strength. We strongly recommend Father John's Medicine to mothers of children who are weak and run down."—Advertisement.

RECEIVERS FOR GREENHUT CO.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The J. B. Greenhut Company, drygoods house, was placed in the hands of receivers today when Walter C. Noyes and William A. Marble were appointed by federal Judge Hand, who fixed their joint bond at $100,000. The bill of complaint was brought by the Monmouth Securities Company. The Greenhut Company consented to the receivership.

Immediately following Judge Hand's appointment of the receivers, an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the company was filed by three other creditors, Frederick Butterfield & Co., Wolf-Erskine and Belden Bros. & Co., who apparently preferred to bring separate actions, though they were privileged to join in the Monmouth Securities Company's suit in equity. The receivers were ordered to continue the business.

In its petition for a receiver, the Monmouth Securities Company, in addition to its claim in excess of $200,000, set forth that the J. B. Greenhut Company owed many other obligations which it was unable to meet.

Saul S. Myers, attorney for about one hundred creditors, said that their claims aggregate between $500,000 and $1,000,000. He stated that the liabilities of the company would be $12,000,000, with assets of $6,000,000, exclusive of real estate. The real estate is owned by the Monmouth company, which filed a bill in equity to protect second mortgage bondholders.

The company was a consolidation of Greenhut & oCmpany and the Siegel Cooper oCmpany. The name of the Consolidated oCmpany originally was the Greenhut-Siegel-Cooper oCmpany, but the name was changed to the present title in May, 1914. It is said it suffered at the time of the Siegel failure from the fact that the Siegel name was included in the incorporation name of the company.

At the time of the Siegel failure the bank conducted by the Greenhut store had about 60,000 depositors and the business was fully liquidated.

Benjamin Paskus, of Rose & Paskus, representing the Greenhut oCmpany, said that today's proceedings are friendly in character and that unquestionably the business of the company would be reorganized and continued. He said the total liabilities were about $2,500,000 and that the company had outstanding $6,000,000 in bonds. He pointed out that the company's liabilities were covered by quick assets of $4,000,000.

Mr. Greenhut and his family own a majority of the securities of the company in addition to being large creditors for money advanced to the company. It is said that it will be his aim to make every effort possible to bring about a speedy reorganization and to continue the business as heretofore without interruption.

The bonds outstanding are held by the public in this country and abroad and by banks. It is estimated that New York banks are interested to the amount of $700,000.

Plant a Tree on April 24; It's Arbor Day

Saturday, April 24, is Arbor Day in Massachusetts.

The executive proclamation to this effect was issued today by Governor Walsh. It is as follows:

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

By His Excellency David I. Walsh, Governor.

A PROCLAMATION.

In order to impress more strongly upon the citizens of Massachusetts the great importance of our orchards and forests to the common welfare, the General Court has decreed that the last Saturday in April of each year should be set apart as a special day for "the planting of trees, shrubs and vines, the promoting of forest growths and culture, and the adorning of public and private grounds."

I, therefore, David I. Walsh, Governor, do hereby designate and set apart Saturday, the twenty-fourth day of April, as ARBOR DAY, and I urge and invite all good citizens, old and young, to do their part to make the day, and all the days during the planting season, of real advantage to these important interests of the Commonwealth.

To the first settlers the magnificent forests of New England were mainly a menace and an impediment—the hunting-places of savage foes and cumberers of the lands needed for agriculture. By following generations the forests have been heedlessly depleted for immediate gain, with too little regard for consequences to soil and climate and to the rights of posterity.

It is for us now to redeem as far as may be former errors, to reclothe stony and infertile wastes with valuable timber, to develop our unparalleled orchard resources, to beautify our landscapes, and to line our highways with a grateful shade.

Given at the Executive Chamber, in Boston, this eighth day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-ninth.

(Signed) DAVID I. WALSH.

'LOW SHOE DAY' GAINS IN FAVOR

April 15.—"Low Shoe Day!"

This is the big idea, and it promises to take the people of Boston and New England in a strong grip.

It first came from a hint, which has now taken the form of quite a demand from the public in and around Boston, for a time when Winter shoes should begin to be tossed into discard and the new, comfortable low shoes be brought forth in all their smartness for the Spring and Summer season.

This is something on the order—but perhaps not so much so—of the curious old New England custom that makes the wearing of a straw hat after Labor Day more or less dangerous for the male sex.

The retail shoe dealers of Massachusetts, through their powerful organization, have informally given their approval. These gentlemen, who represent the enterprise and energy of the retail shoe business throughout the Commonwealth, assembled at the headquarters of the New England Shoe and Leather Association, listened to reports from various shoe dealers in Boston and adjoining cities, and expressed the unanimous opinion that April 15 is the psychological moment when the shoe-buying public wants—and should be encouraged—to change its shoes.

Chicago, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh were pointed to as being among cities where the interesting and sensible custom of laying aside Winter footwear on April 15 already has a strong hold.

"The feeling," said W. W. Willson, president of the Massachusetts Retail Shoe Merchants' Association, "is not that everybody is going to automatically lock his or her high shoes up in the safe on the morning of April 15, regardless of the weather, but that that date sort of marks the time when people who pay attention to good style in dress naturally stop wearing the boots and purchase oxfords.

"It happens, too, that every up-to-date dealer has his stock of Spring and Summer oxfords right at the highest point the middle of this month, and so April 15 seems to be the ideal time, from the standpoint of shopping advantage as well as good taste, for introducing the low-cuts."

Therefore, Boston's and New England's shoe store windows bid fare to those forth in splendor, the next few days, with the smartest of the new 1915 fashions in low shoes. "Low-Shoe Day, April 15th" is the slogan.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which every one should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Advertisement.

$1.50 AND $2.00 HATS 90c

"D. A. Schultz, then one of the largest retail cigar store chains in the United States, wanted to open a chain of retail hat stores, featuring $1.50 and $2.00 hats, the stores to be operated under the name of Wallingford Hat Co. They opened one corner of Broad and Market streets, (the finest corner in Newark) and one of the quietest spots in the country, but for some reason this store did not move a success.

"Bacon cash closed the deal quick. And if you handle this right you'll have one of the biggest $1.50 and $2 hats in the city of Boston."

"There are men's and young men's hats, soft hats and stiff hats, all the popular styles and colors and all sizes." 90c

WORKERS TO RUN DENNISON PLANT

the foremen and executive employes. This limitation was made on the theory that the success of the business depends on the brains of the company.

These employes, however, will not be permitted to purchase stock—it will be given them, outright, to be theirs as long as they work for the company. But only working employes, actually on the job, will be allowed voting stock.

The profits, after deduction of the 8 per cent dividends for the holders of the preferred stock, will be shared in by all the employes, those receiving more than $1,200 salary and those receiving less, who have no voice in the control of the company.

This "industrial stock," as the common stock is called, will amount to $1,950,000. That is, stock to that amount is permitted to be issued. This will give the employes a one to five proportional share with the preferred stockholders in the new company.

The stock will be apportioned to the employes in proportion to the amount of salary each employe receives. No issue of additional industrial stock shall be made, under the new provisions, until a five per cent. dividend has been paid on all outstanding industrial stock. No cash dividend on the industrial stock shall exceed twenty per cent. in one year.

The industrial partnership stock has been accumulating and nearing the $1,000,000 mark since the article of agreement was entered into in 1911. Before another year the plan will have passed entirely into the hands of the employes of the concern, and the business will be managed and directed by them.

Mr. Dennison, treasurer of the company, explained the new profit-sharing plan as follows:

"Two considerations pointed to increasing dangers in the future. First, the constant spectacle of all fruits of extraordinary efforts on the part of the managers, foremen or salesmen being turned over to people who are almost strangers to the company, could only result in a progressive weakening of enthusiasm and loyalty.

"Second, the steady increase in the proportion of stock held by people unacquainted with the business pointed to the time when the voting power must inevitably be used for some other purpose besides the permanent good of the company itself. As a measure of safety for the future, then, the form of incorporation was changed.

REAL PROFIT EARNERS.

"Who were the real profit earners in the organization? An analysis so thorough as to deal almost individually with cases of more than 2,000 employes led us to the conclusion that profits depended almost solely on such men as sales managers, senior salesmen, department heads and foremen.

"To distinguish the relative profit-earning power of each individual in these classes, it was clear that the relative salaries was a fair guide, and the stock is therefore loaned to them in proportion to the salary received the previous year.

"The interests of the industrial partners are the interests of the permanent residents in the business. They cannot sell their jobs as readily as a man can sell his stock and they want permanent and prosperous employment, more than they want immediate returns.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

The Automobile Legal Association has resumed its bulletin service notifying members of the location of traps, road conditions, etc. The association plans to write a weekly letter to its members concerning matters which are constantly arising.

The trap and road notices will this year be published on a large sheet of paper, making it more convenient for carrying and consultation.

One of the new Cole eight-cylinder cars was recently received by the Cole Motor Company, local distributors of this car. The eight is attracting a great deal of attention and in its demonstration work has shown most excellent hill climbing ability. Its flexibility is really remarkable, and those who have enjoyed a trip in the same are enthusiastic over its performance.

Barney Oldfield, star of the Maxwell team, captured $7,000 in his recent trip to the coast. He won $5,000 for his record breaking non-stop run at Carrona, $3,500 for his winning of the Venice Grand Prize and $1,000 for his victory at the race in Tucson. In all of these events Oldfield drove his Maxwell racer.

Billy Carlson, also of the Maxwell team, on the same trip captured $5,800. He started in six events and in five of them was among the money winners. In two he finished second to Oldfield.

The victories of Oldfield and Carlson make the Maxwell the season's champion car up to date with a total winning of $12,800.

He says: "I propose to represent Rhode Island in the AMERICAN'S Grand California Tour Contest. I look to my friends in Little Rhody to pull me through with flying colors."

FIRST SERIES 'B' COUPON ON SUNDAY

THE TIME: Next Sunday, April 11.
THE PLACE: Any newsdealer's shop.
THE EVENT: The first coupon in "Series B"—the big 10-vote coupon—in the AMERICAN'S Great California Tour Contest.

Candidates will do well to read and re-read the above announcement.

It may make all the difference between success and failure to realize the vital necessity of a flying start on the second lap of the campaign.

The thing that will, undoubtedly, win the trips for the twenty-five successful candidates will be a proper appreciation of the DOUBLE VOTE VALUE given for consecutive sets of coupons.

That's what going to count—and count big—in the final results.

Bear that in mind! If you and your friends begin next Sunday and save each day's coupons without missing any for the next fifteen days, you will get DOUBLE VOTE VALUE for each set of fifteen consecutively numbered coupons that you turn in after the end of the fifteen-day "Series B" period.

That's the thing that counts! A little patience, a little effort, and you get two for one.

But, if you don't get started on next Sunday, which is the first "Series B" day, you cannot possibly get the double consecutive value, so line up your friends—do it now—and have every one of them, relatives and even acquaintances, get next Sunday's AMERICAN and promise to continue with the AMERICAN every day for at least fifteen days from next Sunday, so that you will not miss this wonderful DOUBLE VOTE VALUE, which represents such a tremendous factor in determining who will be the fortunate twenty-five candidates to take the wonder trip from coast to coast, with all expenses paid by the Boston AMERICAN.

Remember!
Next Sunday is the day.
The Sunday AMERICAN is the paper.
The big 10-vote coupon is the goal.
Go to it!

LITTLE PIMPLES ALL OVER FACE

Got Worse. Itched and Burned Intensely. Face Disfigured. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In 2 Months Pimples Disappeared.

Cromwell, Conn.—"My skin trouble began with little blind pimples at over my face. Day after day they got worse. I lost a great many nights' sleep because they were always itching and burning. They itched and burned so intensely that I would scratched till they began to spread. My face was disfigured.

"I used so many different kinds of remedies that I can't begin to name them, but they made my face worse. Then I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a sample. In a few days I noticed my pimples were getting smaller. Then I bought a box of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in two months time my face was clear of all eruptions; all the pimples disappeared." ASKS DEFICIT AID BY HARVARD MEN

Another financial burden will rest on the shoulders of Harvard alumni if the plan set forth in the Alumni Bulletin by a writer signing himself "Massachusetts," is adopted. "Massachusetts" wants the university's annual deficit met by contributions from the graduates, not by a raise in the tuition fee. He writes in part:

"The Harvard class which has been out of college twenty-five years is always able to raise $100,000. I can not think that the rest of the loyal graduates of Harvard will refuse to contribute $50,000 or $75,000 a year if they are asked to subscribe. The colleges and authorities may be afraid that such a campaign, by reducing the possible sources of supply, will prevent larger gifts from certain individuals, but that apprehension seem to me to be groundless.

Free Trips To California

First Series "B" Coupon in

Next Sunday's AMERICAN

Get a Flying Start Sunday on Series "B"

Good evening! How many votes did you secure yesterday?

That's getting to be the greeting one hears among the readers of the American—for every one seems to be interested in trying to win a place in the big race for the 25 De Luxe trips and the $1,250 in gold offered by this newspaper as prizes in its California Expositions Tour Contest.

The Contest Manager is surprised by the number of visitors at No. 5 Winthrop square, and the intense interest shown in the contest. He is always ready to aid contestants with advice and suggestions, so if you feel in need of aid, don't hesitate to ask it.

In the meantime, he has two most important announcements to make to you:

First and foremost: The first coupon in "Series B" will appear in next Sunday's American, April 11th.

Secondly: After the 15th and last coupon which appears in "Series A" tomorrow, Saturday, April 10, you have one week from that date to gather, sort and send in all "Series A" votes.

The principal thing for every candidate to bear in mind just now is the vital necessity for a flying start on "Series B," beginning with next Sunday's big 10-vote coupon. This, as you know, is so important because of the double vote value given for every full set of consecutively numbered coupons in "Series B." You know, of course, that the Daily American coupon counts for one vote and the Sunday American counts for 10 votes. You also know that there will be 15 coupons in "Series B" and every other series, except the last, which will have only 9 coupons.

Several candidates want to know what value is given for coupons that are not consecutively numbered. The answer to this is—face value—in other words, the Daily coupon will count only ONE and the Sunday coupon only TEN votes in the event that they are not submitted in consecutively numbered order at the end of each period.

There is ample time for any one who has neglected to enroll to get in the race TODAY. Fill in and send or bring the enrollment ballot to the California Tour Headquarters at No. 5 Winthrop square and get to work.

This contest is going to be a test of the perseverance and hustling ability of every one in it.

All you have to do is to look at the prizes carefully to assure yourself that no one will walk away with any of them without some effort. That's the value of the whole thing—what's worth having is worth working for.

It's up to you. The American has provided 25 magnificent trips from coast to coast, with a visit to the San Francisco and San Diego Fairs, and every cent of expense paid, and, in addition, $1,250 in gold, which will be divided equally among the 25 winning candidates for extra spending money on the tour.

This $1,250 is EXTRA—ADDITIONAL—as every needful expense will be borne by the American. It will not be necessary for any winning candidate to take along so much as a five-cent piece.

Write to the Contest Manager and tell him of your progress in securing vote coupons. He will be glad to print, in this column, some of the experiences of the contestants just to show other contestants that it is not hard to get people interested in reading New England's real, live, up-to-date newspaper.

To those of you who may have thought the contest a long one, we have only to call to your attention with advice and suggestions, so if you feel in need of aid, don't hesitate to ask it.

The big thing for you to remember is to line up your friends for a flying start on next Sunday, April 11, when the first vote coupon of "Series B" appears—and don't forget it's the big 10-vote coupon.

Between now and Sunday evening, get in touch with every friend, relative or acquaintance that you can think of and ask them to launch you with a jump on "Series B" by getting as many of next Sunday's big 10-vote coupons for you as possible.

And don't forget the DOUBLE VOTE VALUE given for every full set of consecutively numbered coupons in "Series B."

That's the thing to remember—rally your forces for next Sunday.

The reward will be great—the effort required little in comparison.

Watch this column each day for this story, which will contain, from time to time, all necessary announcements and information for candidates.

Get ready for the start of "Series B" and the big 10-vote coupon in next Sunday's American, April 11.

$486,567 in Pearls Lost for Few Hours Through the Mail

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—Leon and Rosenthal recently sent $486,567 worth of pearls from Paris to San Francisco by registered mail. Several weeks later he called to learn if the jewels had been received here. They had not. There was immediate and exciting investigation.

After a few hours in which Rosenthal was warming the cable with messages, the jewels were found in the office of J. O. Davis, collector of port.

Davis said the shipment by mail was a violation of customs rules, but that the matter easily could be straightened out. Pending conformity to certain customs requirements, Davis is the custodian of the pearls.

A Man and His Wife

Isabel Is Escorted Home by Duval, Who Is Very Attentive

"Won't you come in?" she asked tentatively.

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XXXI

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Company.

ISABEL HAMILTON sank back contentedly in the cab and heard David Duval give the driver the number of her home. This was the kind of life she could enjoy, she mused. What a wonderful evening it had been! How easily she had talked—with so little embarrassment. How charming Mr. Ferris was, and how nice Mr. Duval was! As to the dinner and the service, they were perfect. No wonder Ida looked happy, to be able to dress and entertain as she did. One could see that she was in the habit of giving such dinners as these several times a month. Such an existence might be called "The Life."

"Are you tired?" David Duval's gentle query made her start.

"Oh, no," she assured him, "not a bit tired. I wish the evening was just beginning. I have had such a good time."

"You enjoy things so thoroughly that you are a most refreshing person to meet," he told her.

She smiled and colored. "You see," she said, "I have really been out very little. I have been married less than a year, and my husband has been so busy that it is only within the past few weeks that we have gone into society much. And," with a little sigh, "truth compels me to say that we have not the money to entertain as many people do."

He shook his head. "Don't sigh about that," he reproved. "While I have not a great deal of money, I have enough"—with a smile—"to keep the wolf from my front doorstep. I have a pretty little bachelor apartment, and can travel quite a bit, but, after all, what does that amount to compared to what your husband has? His has somebody to work for—a real home, and—a wife. He ought to be down on his knees thanking the gods for his good fortune," he ended lightly.

MUCH MORE CONSIDERATE THAN JOHN, SHE THINKS

"To be sure." Duval went on a moment later, as Isabel remained silent. "Hamilton has no pleasure on account of [illegible] as this evening, for instance. But although he could not be at the Ferris dinner, he has the satisfaction of knowing that in his office he is working for you."

Isabel seemed to speak, then she let herself. But her companion saw the start and knew that wherever John Hamilton was tonight, he was not working. The wife did not know that he had suspected this already.

At the house, Duval took Isabel's key and opened the front door for her as the hallboy had gone home. "Now, you can run along," he told the man, "and I will go upstairs with you and open your apartment door. I don't like you to go through these halls alone at this time of night."

He was much more considerate than John, the wife reflected. But he was not a husband—and she supposed that made a difference.

"Won't you come in?" she asked tentatively, as he swung her apartment door open and stood aside for her to enter. "I'm not sure if John is in yet, but if not, he will be soon."

"Oh, no, thank you" He paused. "My dear child," he went on abruptly, "you are very young and inexperienced. I hope you may always have somebody to take care of you. May I call some time and see you, please?"

"I—I—wish you would," she stammered.

When he had gone downstairs, she closed the door and went slowly to her own room. What had he meant? Had she been too unconventional in inviting him to come in? Surely that was only hospitality. Then, as she glanced at the clock, she saw that it was long past eleven. Suppose Duval had come in, and John had returned and found him here! Perhaps that was what Duval was thinking of. How ignorant and careless she was, and how kind and considerate he was!

A sudden sense of indignation against John swept over her. What right had a husband to place his wife in a position where she might make such mistakes as she had almost made when she would have made if Duval had not been a gentleman?

She tried to think calmly of John's position tonight. Even if he had felt it his duty to go to his club, he ought to have felt it also his duty to arrange how his wife was to get home. He had supposed that Cynthia would accompany her to Mrs. Ferris's house. But he knew that Cynthia would not call to bring her back. What had he said about that? Oh, yes—"Probably Mrs. Ferris will get her husband to come home with you. The idea! As if Ida could be expected to send her husband home with a guest whose own husband would not come for her!

John took too much for granted. He took everything for granted—his own right to do as he pleased, other people's willingness to carry his burdens, his wife's blind devotion and unquestioning acquiescence to his views. The truth was that he had not had enough interest in her welfare to ask her how she expected to return from Ida's. No—he took that for granted, too.

Yet she had been glad earlier in the evening that he had not asked her to be her escort—was to be with her. He might not have approved of her accepting David Duval's attentions. But surely there was not as much harm in allowing a nice man to act as her escort to a friend's house as there was in John's attentions to Adelaide Simmons.

JOHN DOES NOT COME IN TILL 3 A. M.

She undressed and went to bed, her mind once more occupied with the events of the evening. She was too much excited at first to fall asleep, but anxiety about her husband did not hold her eyes waking. When she fell to thinking about the clubs there were no women there. She thought of the danger of "women," but it was a collective noun that really meant Adelaide Simmons. Tonight John was far removed from that influence.

It was 3 o'clock in the morning when the sound of her husband's step aroused Isabel from sleep. Instinctively she sprang from bed and crept into the hall, meeting him just outside of his dressing-room door.

One glance at his face turned her cold. For it was evident that he had been drinking heavily.

FRECKLE FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-Face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles, while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any of the Riker-Jaynes Drug Stores, or any druggist, and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Parsly is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine, as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Advertisement.

The Tortures of Jealousy

AN INGENIOUS SHORT STORY, COMPLETE

LEWASCHOW was writing a drama in five acts entitled "The Tortures of Jealousy," but he stuck toward the end of the second act, in which the hero Sarbanikow accuses his wife of faithlessness. The reproaches came readily from Lewaschow's pen, but when it was the turn of the wife to say something in her own defense his genius failed him.

"The devil only knows what a wife will say in such a situation," he thought, chewing his penholder furiously. "I am thirsty—so now and have not the slightest idea of what a wife who returns from a clandestine meeting will answer to a husband who has found her out. And how should I know?"

As a matter of fact Lewaschow had never the lightest reason to suspect his Wjerotchka.

"What a pity she has gone out for a walk," he thought. "Otherwise I might have asked her. Of course, she has no reason to try to justify herself, but as a woman she knows the ways of woman better than I do."

He threw down his pen and began to read from his play:

Karbanikow (threatening)—"I know everything. Do not try to lie to me. I know every single detail and the smallest lie will only add to your guilt. Tell me the truth. Do you come from the arms of your sweetheart now?"

Mary (Remains stubbornly silent without raising her eyes.)

HE DEMANDS THE NAME

Karbanikow — Why don't you speak? You don't imagine that your silence will convince me of your innocence when I have a right to demand an answer to my question. Speak!" (He takes hold of her arm violently.) "What is his name? I want to know the name of the man who has dared soil my honor."

Mary speaks in a voice broken by sobs.

But Lewaschow did not know what to make Mary say between her sobs. He imagined that a woman under similar circumstances would swear that she was innocent and a victim of a conspiracy. But Mary did not do that. There is always a friend to blame. He now thought of making a scene with his Wjerotchka. Of course, she would be indignant and say just the words Mary was saying in fear, for Mary is really the victim of a shameless intrigue.

The thought of the experiment with Wjerotchka impressed him, and he resolved to try it out when she returned from her walk. She was sure to be home before for the evening's meal of the second act. In the meantime he went on with the third act.

An hour or more passed, and he had already written several scenes of the third act, in which the hero meets the mistress of his wife's heart, when the doorbell rang. Lewaschow put down his manuscript and began pacing the floor of his study. His wife entered flushed with the excitement of her brisk walk, and he made a rush for her.

"I know everything," he roared. "Do not try to lie to me. I know every single detail, and the smallest lie will only add to your guilt. Tell me the truth. Do you come straight from the arms of your sweetheart now?"

Everything went swimmingly. Wjerotchka was frightened and began to retreat, not daring to look at her husband, who had undoubtedly been told everything.

ACCUSES HIS WIFE

"You, you false serpent of Tashkina, who has betrayed me!" she thought. "She is jealous because she is in love with Kolguschkin and the others were no women there. She thought of the danger of "women," but it was a collective noun that really meant Adelaide Simmons. Tonight John was far removed from that influence.

It was 3 o'clock in the morning when the sound of her husband's step aroused Isabel from sleep. Instinctively she sprang from bed and crept into the hall, meeting him just outside of his dressing-room door.

A Vanished American Bird

Not So Long Ago the Passenger Pigeon Darkened Our Skies

The passenger pigeon as it lookedin life.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

THE United States once possessed a distinctively American bird, belonging to the great family of the pigeons, but different from all other species of that family, and so remarkable for the vast numbers and the peculiar habits that it became renowned as one of the greatest marvels of the New World. It was called the passenger pigeon. Its singular habits marked it off from its distant relatives in the Old World as sharply as the American red man was distinguished from the European.

It was so conspicuous a feature of American life that, like the buffalo of the plains, it passed into our literature, where it plays a part unlike that taken by any other bird in any quarter of the world. Other birds have been sung by poets for the beauty of their songs, or their love of man's companionship, or the aspiring ideals which they seem to symbolize. The passenger pigeon forced itself upon the attention of American historians and descriptive writers by the simple countlessness of its hosts. Where they passed they changed the aspect of the landscape; they covered the sky and shielded off the sunlight; they broke down forest trees when they alighted for the night.

Usually observers of the flight of the passenger pigeons abandoned as hopeless all attempts to count, or to estimate, their numbers, but we have at least two enumerations made by competent observers which serve to indicate the almost incredible numerical strength of the flying hosts. John James Audubon, the naturalist, computed the number of pigeons in a stream which he saw passing at not less than one hundred millions. He calculated that this host must consume 8,500,000 bushels of grain per day. This was not an exceptionally large flight of pigeons, for Audubon had often seen them in equally great numbers.

Alexander Wilson, the ornithologist, once saw a flock of passenger pigeons whose aggregate length he calculated at 240 miles. The number of individuals contained in it at 2,230,272,000, about twice the total human population of the earth at that time! Wilson's estimate of the daily food supply needed for this tremendous host was 17,424,000 bushels of grain, which, it will be noticed, is in good accord with Audubon's calculation of the amount of provender required by the pigeons.

One cannot but wonder how the birds succeeded in maintaining themselves in a wild country. It is explained that they began to eat grain only after the settlers' farms furnished it for them, and that their natural food was berries, soft shelled nuts like beechnuts, acorns, and wild fruits. Their ordinary migrations were simply movements in search of food, and not seasonal changes of residences like those of regular migrant birds. They gathered where ever their natural food abounded at the time and, when it was exhausted, moved on. Their invasions were erratic and sudden as those of the Goths and Vandals, and as well calculated to excite astonishment concerning their place of origin.

The region of the Great Lakes seems to have been a favorite place of congregation for these strange hosts. There they found many of the natural productions on which they relied. But how they ever attained such incredible numbers, and what special circumstances favored their development, are standing mysteries.

The beech forests and the vast numbers of native berry bushes appear to have nourished them.

In Fenimore Cooper's story of "The Pioneer" will be found a thrilling description of a flock of passenger pigeons which "extended from mountain to mountain in one solid blue mass, and the eye looked in vain over the southern hills to find its termination. The front of this living column was distinctly marked by a line, but very slightly indented, so regular and even was the flight." These columns of birds were attacked not only with shotguns, but even with small cannon, as Cooper tells in his story, his statements being based upon actual facts.

By the middle of the nineteenth century the flocks of passenger pigeons had become very rare. A series of cold Winters and Springs from 1869 to 1870 is said by a writer in the "Encyclopedia Americana" to have hastened the disappearance of the birds, and now only a few small flocks remain at best, and, indeed, it has been questioned whether a single representative of the genuine species is in existence. A card of the National Association of Audubon Societies says: "This bird is now believed to be extinct. Many other valuable species are threatened will a like fate. We are trying to preserve them."

The passenger pigeons bore, in many ways, a resemblance to the messenger pigeons, or homing pigeons, of Europe. It was a large bird, much more graceful in form than the ordinary pigeon, and very powerful in flight. The upper parts of the body were of a bluish color, with metallic reflections about the neck. Underneath, the color changed to a brownish or reddish purple or violet.

Household Suggestions

Never put table linen into soapsuds until all stains have been removed by pouring boiling water through the linen.

When jelly will not set, add the juice of a lemon or some white vinegar.

To polish copper, take a little finely powdered bathbrick, moisten with vinegar, and when it is mixed to a paste rub a little on to the copper with a soft cloth. Let it stand for a time, then rub off and polish with a soft cloth.

If you wish to remove stains from sewing machine oil, washing in a lather made of soap, cold water and a tablespoonful of ammonia will usually prove successful, but in the case of colored linens and cottons ammonia should be employed cautiously, as it is apt to make the colors fade.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know someone who is troubled with head noises, or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Recent experiments have proved conclusively that Catarrhal Deafness, head noises, etc., were the direct cause of constitutional disease, and that salves, sprays, inhalers, etc., merely temporize with the complaint and seldom, if ever effect a permanent cure. This being so, much time and money has been spent of late by a physician specialist in perfecting a pure, gentle, yet effective, tonic that would quickly dispel all traces of the catarrhal poison from the system, thereby restoring nature to its normal condition, and which has aroused the belief that deafness will soon be entirely, as given below in understandable form, so that anyone can treat themselves in their own home as Mrs. Jones did.

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength), about 25c worth. Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose should begin to relieve the distressing head noises, headache, dizziness, sleeplessness, while the second dose usually returns to the system its functioning in the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and hearing disappears in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are often entirely overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are due to catarrh caused by catarrh; therefore, there must be many people whose hearing can be restored by this simple home treatment.

Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness, or catarrh in any form, should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing

ISN'T ITCHING ECZEMA AWFUL!

Are you an eczema sufferer? Do those ugly patches of eruption start up and itch as though they would drive you frantic, and have you tried, without relief treatment with, all kinds of only temporary relief? Then you are only going through the experience of thousands of others who have at last found that Resinol healed their sick skins for good!

With the first use of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap the itching and burning usually stop, and soon all trace of eczema or similar torturing skin disease disappears, even in severe and stubborn cases. Doctors have prescribed the Resinol treatment for twenty years. Sold by all druggists. For trial cake, write to Dept. 12-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

IS YOUR TOILET SOAP SAFE?

Many toilet soaps contain harsh, irritating alkali. Resinol Soap contains absolutely no free alkali, and to it is added the Resinol medication. This gives it soothing, healing properties which clear the complexion, comfort tender skins and keep the hair healthy.—Advertisement.

HAVE COLOR IN YOUR CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by a physician who spent years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. "You will know them by their pretty color."

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, ambition, feeling the buoyancy like childhood days, just take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel, yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. Thirty cents per box. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 10 and 25c per box. All druggists.

Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

NEW TESTIMONY BY MRS. BARTOL

Mrs. Charlotte H. Bartol, daughter of Louis Cabot, Brookline and Milton etubman, whose $2,000,000 will is being contested by another daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Vernon Briggs, before Judge Hardy and a jury in the Norfolk County Courthouse, told on the witness stand today that in the Autumn of 1912 she read an account in a newspaper to her father of some criticism of the appointment of Dr. Lloyd Vernon Briggs as a member of the State Insanity Commission.

Mrs. Bartol is the wife of Dr. John W. Bartol and is a witness for the will. She was called to the stand yesterday afternoon for direct examination by Charles F. Choat, Jr., counsel for the will. She resumed her testimony today. She was later cross examined by Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for Mrs. Briggs, who is contesting the will on the ground that when Mr. Cabot made his will he was of unsound mind

NAMING THE BABY.

"My father came to see me at the Chestnut street, Boston, house several times," said Mrs. Bartol. "He made it a practice to call whenever he would be on an errand. He came in one day after my son Louis was born.

"I wrote and asked him if he would mind if a Bartol was named after him? He said no, that he would be pleased. I remember my father calling after Louis was born. It was during the month of April, 1912. I remember him holding the baby in his arms. I cannot remember where that was the last time he called or not."

Questioned about her visits to her father's Brookline home Mrs. Bartol testified to a conversation which she had on one occasion with him there.

"We were talking about the Brookline house," she testified, "and father said, 'I don't like the place now. If I were a younger man I would sell the whole shooting match and clear out.'

"My father never mentioned his will to me. I never talked to him about his will. I didn't know he had made one. One time he said 'Your mother and I have made our wills. She leaves everything to me if she dies, and I leave all to her if I should die.

TELLS TALK OF JEWELS.

"Did your father ever say anything to you about your mother's jewels?"

"Yes. We were out driving and he said 'I'm going to give your mother's jewels to Jeanette. She is the only possible one who will get it.' Jeanette is my daughter."

Mrs. Bartol hesitated in her testimony. Tears came to her eyes. She continued:

"I said 'Oh, papa, I think you're foolish to do that. It will hurt so many people's feelings. You better think it over again and change your mind.'

Mrs. Bartol testified that on another occasion she said to her father: 'It hurts me to think you are going to leave the jewels to Jeanette. Why don't you give some to Polly (Mrs. Briggs) on her birthday.'

Mr. Cabot told witness he didn't want to hear any more about the jewelry, she testified.

"Did he ever give you any jewelery?"

"He gave me this ring and this watch when I was twelve years old." (Both were shown to the jury.)

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

If cross, feverish or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

No matter what ails your child a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to clean the little ones' liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." For sale by leading druggists and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

WOMEN'S VANITY SATISFIED!

At last there is just the kind of cold cream that will actually do the work. Is Medicated. Vesonol is found a cold cream, cleanser and tissue builder to be massaged into the Face, Neck, Arms and Hand.

Medicated Vesonol massaged daily into the skin cream, the bloom of youth lives and brightens the skin and feeds the underlying tissues in such a way that wrinkles, hollow places and imperfections are banished from the complexion. It will not grow hairs.

Mothers use it to massage the bust after the nursing period to develop the proper contour of the form and make the bust firm and full.

For facial massage it is unexcelled in filling out the lines, invigorating the skin and underlying muscles and making the complexion clear and firm.

Many beautiful society women and actresses owe their attractive face and figure to Medicated Vesonol massage.

For the penny and now in developing, Medicated Vesonol has no equal.—Advertisement.

Two Explosions and Fire Wreck Serbian Club

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—Two terrific explosions, believed by the police to have been caused by dynamite, wrecked the Serbian Club early today, seriously damaged adjoining buildings and shattered plate glass windows within a radius of a city block.

Fire which followed the explosion burned the club building to the ground so far as the police have learned no lives were lost. The last of the club members was believed to have left the club about midnight.

The Serbian Club was located in the centre of the Greek district of the city. Disturbances have been frequent since the outbreak of the Balkan troubles preceding the European war.

SWOBODA GIVEN BRIEF HEARING

PARIS, April 9.—Raymond Swoboda, who was arrested on the charge that he tried to blow up the French line steamship La Touraine at sea, was arraigned today before a captain of the second court-martial for preliminary interrogation. The examination was in camera and very brief. Swoboda vehemently declared his innocence, saying:

"I can disprove all accusations against me."

It is learned that Swoboda was in strained circumstances last September and earned a living by driving automobiles in Paris for fleeing Parisians when the Germans were threatening the city.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury, who was operated on for appendicitis three weeks ago, sat up for the first time yesterday.

HABEAS HEARING FOR HORN FIRST

Werner Horn, the German army officer who tried to blow up the international railroad bridge over the St. Croix River at Vanceboro, Me., as an act of war, according to him, is to have his habeas corpus petition settled before he comes into the United States District Court again on the indictment charging him with illegal transportation of dynamite.

Horn went from New York to Vanceboro and the United States government accuses him of breaking interstate regulations by carrying or sending dynamite all the way. Horn was indicted on this charge and was to plead to the indictment today, one way or the other.

Horn has been sitting in East Cambridge Jail, technically for lack of $10,000 bail. It has been understood, however, that Horn's lawyers Joseph F. and Daniel T. O'Connell, were ready to find bail, only they were wary of letting Horn out of jail on account of extradition proceedings started by the Canadian government.

Are You Under 30? Dyspepsia Should Not Attack You

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 9.—How to prevent dyspepsia before you are thirty was outlined by Charles M. Goethe, professor of the San Jose High School, before the student body. He laid down definite rules and pointed out that if they are strictly followed good health will be the result. He said:

"Be punctual, arise early, dress carefully, eat plain food, retire early, get at least eight hours' sleep, breakfast, well digest, is necessary for a perfect mind, and character are closely associated. Only determined people are found not only determined people but master ally gets the mind.

BILLY SUNDAY A REAL HUMAN DYNAMO, DECLARES DOROTHY DIX

PATERSON, N. J., April 8.—If anybody tells you that Billy Sunday's revival at Paterson is a frost, don't you believe it. You wait until all the returns are in. I give you Billy Sunday's own word for this statement.

"If there's anything that makes me sore," he said to me, talking the vernacular, "it's this report that somebody has started that the Paterson revival has missed fire and is going to be a dead one. They say that because they compare it with the overwhelming enthusiasm of the one we have just finished in Philadelphia, but it's because we're just at the beginning of this one. There wasn't any great religious landslide in Philadelphia to start with. We have to work up to that.

"Taking into consideration the size of the town, and all of the conditions, I have never seen any revival start off with more pep and ginger than this one has. It's going to be a great success. Did you notice that audience this afternoon? Fifteen thousand people on a week day. That looks good to him."

"PEP" COMES LATER.

"Every revival begins the same way," put in "Ma" Sunday. "People are cold and indifferent at first, and then they become after with religious enthusiasm. Every place we have to go through the same process of awakening. It's like rolling a ball up a hill, and then leaving it and rolling another ball up the hill somewhere else."

It was in the lull interval between the afternoon and the evening services, and we were talking in the little anteroom that Mr. Sunday has reserved for himself out of the house that was rented for him and his entourage while they stayed in Paterson.

Mr. Sunday rushed home from the tabernacle after services, and had had a [illegible] run down by his steamer, and was now tucked comfortably in bed. If by any chance a live wire ever gets out of its comfortable

STAGE LOST GOOD COMEDIAN.

Certainly Mr. Sunday is never quiet a moment. He is just as galvanic out of the pulpit as in it, and as he talked to me he raised and lowered himself on his pillow and threshed from side to side of the bed in a ceaseless motion, a human dynamo, supercharged with energy and enthusiasm and driven on by a white-hot faith in his mission.

Personally Mr. Sunday in no way resembles the portraits that have been printed of him. He is a youngish man, growing a bit bald, but with a figure as straight and slender as a reed—he makes you think of the statue of the discus thrower, he is so lean and perfectly muscled, and his every motion is so instinctive with the grace of the trained athlete.

He is clean shaven, with the mobile and sympathetic face of the actor—and oh, what a comedian he would have made if he had not been a preacher—he has unusually big, clear, gray eyes, and a wide mouth, with the most infectious and winning smile you ever saw.

LIKES GOOD CLOTHES.

In the West there is a certain phrase that is either a deadly insult or a term of endearment, according to whether or not it is accompanied with a smile, and after seeing the Sunday smile you understand why audiences love to have him abuse and bully-rag them.

For the rest Mr. Sunday likes good clothes and has a tailor who knows his business, and even as I interviewed him he was wrapped in a gorgeous brocade silk dressing gown held together with a sapphire and diamond stick-pin.

I thought as I had listened to Mr. Sunday preach that I had fathomed the secret of his success—it was that he preached to the hearts instead of the heads of his audience, and that he talked to them of homely sins in place of bewildering them with metaphysics, so that the common people heard him gladly even as they had heard his Master when He first preached the same gospel, but I was curious to know what he thought of the matter.

"Mr. Sunday," I asked, "to what do you attribute your great success as a revivalist, your ability to draw multitudes to hear you when other preachers are preaching to empty benches?"

MAN CALLED OF GOD.

Mr. Sunday smiled his boyish smile. "Well," he said, "a lot of the highbrows have undertaken to figure that out. They have studied the subject and some of them have talked about the psychology of mobs and tried to account for it on that ground. Others have attributed it to my peculiar personality. Still others have suggested I had magnetism, but none of them have taken into account the supernatural—the man being called of God for a certain work. That is the secret of it all. God has called me to this work. That is why I can draw people to hear me and touch their hearts.

"There are tens of thousands of men with far more intellectuality than I have, thousands who are better orators—why don't they draw the crowds? Because God did not give them this work to do. It is the job He gave me, and He gives me the power to do it.

"Another reason people come to hear me preach is because they have been starved to death on the dry husks of theology and I bring them the living bread. I make faith an actuality to them, not an abstraction to argue over. I believe in a personal God and I preach Him to them. When a woman's child lies dead you cannot comfort her with transcendental philosophy. She doesn't want to hear of the higher criticism then; she wants a God to pity her, a God to trust, and wants to feel that her babe is safe in the arms of the Everlasting Father.

AMERICAN PEOPLE RELIGIOUS.

"I assume the preachers have been pursuing this ratified religion, and people have lost. The true spiritual food that they have been [illegible] for these last few years [illegible] out of fire regular [illegible] started up [illegible] at miraculous [illegible] in reality.

"But the American people are an essentially religious people. Not for nothing are they descended from the Pilgrim Fathers and the old Scotch Covenanters, and, while they may wander away from the faith, they can always be brought back to it.

"My success, as you call it, is also due to the fact that in the twenty years I have been preaching I have only had one purpose, to bring men to Christ. I haven't bothered about doctrines. I make religion a personal matter between God and each and you will be saved. In that other way and you will be lost. Take salvation or leave it. It is up to you.

"All I have tried to show people is that one of the graves does end all, and there is no life beyond. It pays to go straight even in this world."

"Do you find that there are reactions after your revivals in the places in which they have been held?" I asked.

REACTION AFTER REVIVALS.

"Sure," he answered cheerfully. "Of course there are weak brothers and sisters who fall by the wayside, but the great majority of men and women stick. But I don't worry about that. You remember that even Peter denied our Lord, that Thomas failed Paul, and the multitude that had followed Christ shouting Hosannas dropped out when the enthusiastic excitement was stopped. So you see I am in good company."

"Do you think you will come to New York to hold a meeting?"

"I don't know," answered Mr. Sunday, "if I am needed I will when the time comes. It is in the Lord's hands. When we are through here we are going to our ranch way out in the wilds of Oregon, and [illegible] everybody, and rest until Fall, eh, Ma?" and he turned on Mrs. Sunday the eyes of a lover, though they have been married long enough to have a grandchild.

And well he might, for Mrs. Sunday makes her husband a great wife indeed. She is a wonderful woman with the face of a Madonna and the eyes of a hawk, a keen, practical genius in all the business, looks after the multitudinous details of organizing the great campaigns [illegible] and is [illegible] and who [illegible] her husband and [illegible] his privacy, [illegible] and, as one [illegible] aptly puts it, "runs the [illegible]

GETS HIS POINT across.

To understand Billy Sunday you must hear him and not read about him. Nobody can reproduce for you on paper the compelling personality of the man, nor that warm, quick smile that [illegible] what he says of sugarity or blasphemy. Speaking, for instance, about the patience and long suffering of God in dealing with his erring children he said that God stuck to us like a hound dog. That sounds shocking in print, but listening to it brought to you only an infinite sense of a love that never wavered or ceased from following after us.

And then, again, he said of the man who had faith, "He may go to the mat, but he will not count him out." So sure is the victory to the faithful, and that was heart-warming, too.

Coming away I remembered that Billy Sunday comes from that Middle West that gave us also Abraham Lincoln, and the two men in their humor, in their homely wit and epigram, and in their simplicity and sincerity and their ability to sway men, seemed to me to have much in common. And that the Abraham Lincoln likeness was my strongest impression of Billy Sunday.

BILLY SUNDAY ON 'BARLEYCORN'

Jack Johnson got licked and then pulled down $120,000. I'll be dogoned if I would have done it. Nobody could have put it over on him without the help of John Barleycorn. I hope to preach the funeral sermon of the booze business.—Billy Sunday.

Why Doctors Say "Oranges"
There is hardly a physician practicing today who doesn't advocate the eating of oranges.
1st, because oranges have a beneficial effect on the blood, keeping it pure and clean. This is especially necessary during the spring and summer months.
2nd, because oranges act as a mild and pleasant stimulant for the liver. A disordered liver changes one's whole outlook on life.
3rd, because oranges contain just the right amount of fruit acid to keep the digestive organs in proper working order. Oranges help the digestion of all other foods.

This Is the Only Sale of Its Kind Held in Boston

Only One Suit To a Customer

HUNDREDS of men wait for this sale to stock up in clothing for a year—ordering two and three suits at a time. This season we have made a rule to sell only one suit to a customer. We conduct this sale for advertising purposes only and do not care for any profit. We expect a man to give us his next order if he is satisfied with the clothes we make him at this sale.

These woolen ends are as fine as anything you can buy at any first-class tailors. They come in all patterns, colors and weaves and are what we were selling before Easter for a much higher price. Some ends are for small men and some will make up for stouts and large men. Remember—only one suit to a customer.

M'VEA SAYS JOHNSON DID NOT TRAIN HARD

Johnson's Trainer Points Finger of Suspicion at the Title Battle.

Jack never did train like a man who was getting ready for a hard fight.

He didn't do any road work. He just took a walk every day. His gymnasium stuff didn't amount to anything.

I wouldn't have thought so much about it if the fight had been for twenty or twenty-five rounds, and when I reminded him that forty-five rounds was a long way from home, he just looked at me and said: "You think so?"

When the fight was about to begin I had his gloves, but he wouldn't put 'em on right away.

That fellow Willard walked into him mighty confident for a man who had never met a big fighter, it seemed to me. I thought Jack ought to have been able to do more to him than he did for awhile, even if he had gone back.

When Jack was walking back to his corner after the knockout he winked at me, and Bob Armstrong said:

"There, you see what money will do."

Jack never seemed to be worried about anything before the fight and was just as happy afterward as ever. When he got home his wife was crying around, and he says:

"Don't cry; I've got something to tell you," and then he whispered to her and she laughed.

Between the rounds Jack never said a word to me about how he felt. He never said he was tired, or anything like that. He just asked the number of the rounds.

It looked to me like Johnson could have done better.

What good was the title to him any more? He said himself you couldn't get anything on a title if you was hungry and when you have been no one for him to fight. Boss, it didn't look good to me.

From statement by Sam McVey, Johnson's chief second and sparring partner in championship battle.

By DAMON RUNYON.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Samuel McVey, the Senegambian slammer from Oxnard, Cal., and his trainer, Dave Mills, woo both served as hoisters to the late John Arthur Johnson in the recent triumph of the noble white race at Havana, and who have been lost in an extremely dark reverie the past couple of days, as they rolled up through the South, got telling us yesterday afternoon just what they think about that Willard-Johnson matter.

They think that on set as Johnson was outclassed. It was like the train schedule on the Atlantic Coast line, which is to say, all wrong. Personally we do not wholly agree with the views of Messrs. McVey and Mills, but our amazing reportorial efforts seem to have so thoroughly accepted all the other news current on the train that we feel it incumbent upon us to tell about Sam and Dave.

M'VEY'S STATEMENT.

What Sam and Dave told us today they will probably repeat all over the country, but it must be remembered that they are both colored boxers, and it is not likely that the colored men of their craft are going to give Willard any more than they have to. It should further be borne in mind that Sam McVey has engaged in several conflicts himself that were not wholly commendable.

Jeorge Lawrence, an Australian, who manages McVey, was inclined to think much the same as Sam and Dave. He says he had five hundred pounds' bet on Johnson in Australia, but managed to call it off at the last minute.

"Jack never did train like a man who was getting ready for a hard fight," says Sam, with Dave nodding agent to every sentence. "He did not do any road work. He just took a walk every day. His gymnasium stuff did not amount to anything. He started out all right when he landed there, but after the first week he was not so brisk. I think something had happened.

"I wouldn't have thought so much about it if the fight had been for twenty or twenty-five rounds; but I says to him one day: 'Jack,' I says, 'forty-five rounds is a long way from home, man.' He just looked at me and says: 'You think so?' but he didn't do no different.

WINKED AFTER KNOCKOUT.

"When the fight was about to begin I had his gloves, but he would not put 'em on right away. He held them until I sign a paper,' he says, and I waited right there in his corner until he had signed the agreement that gave him 50 per cent. of the pictures and the management of the European rights.

"That fellow Willard walked into him mighty confident for a man who had never met a big fighter before, it seemed to me. I thought Jack ought to have been able to do more than he did for a while, even if he had gone back. Anybody would think Willard would have the same notion, but he never seemed to be scared about anything Jack might do.

"When Jack was walking back to his corner after the knockout he winked at me, and Bob Armstrong said:

"'There you see what money will do.'

"Jack never seemed to be worried about anything before the fight and was just as happy afterward as ever. When he got home his wife was crying around, and he says:

"'Don't cry; I've got something to tell you,' and then he whispered to her and she laughed.

COULD LICK WILLARD.

"Between the rounds Jack never said a word to me about how he felt. He never said he was tired, or anything like that. He just asked the number of the rounds. Willard can't fight. Leaving out all us black fellows I one name four white men who can lick him, and it looked to me like Johnson could have done better.

"I tried to get a fight with Johnson, and I promised me a match, but he said it would be only for ten rounds, and that it would have to be fixed. Yet he insisted on boxing Willard forty-five rounds. If it had been twenty or twenty-five I could understand it, but where did an old man like him have a right to think he could go forty-five.

"What good was the title to him any more?" concluded Sam. "He said himself you could not get anything on a title if you was hungry and there would not have been no honor and there would not have been no one for him to fight. Boss, it didn't look good to me."

McVey's statement does not coincide, however, with his description of his boxing exhibition with Johnson a few days before the fight. He said of that:

"My manager told me to cut loose and liven up the show a bit, but I dassent do it or I would have made Jack look bad."

JOHNSON WAS THROUGH.

Now there was no reason for Johnson not making a shoveling match McVey, so the fact that he failed to do so is the surest proof in the world that he was through when he faced Willard. It is possible that he realized this long before the fight. It is possible that when he started to train he found he could not get his condition and decided not to tax himself in the effort.

His last minute hold up of the management means nothing, because he did the same thing at Reno and crossed himself. The fight there was to have been on a basis of 75 and 25, but Jack called up on the Tex Rickard at the eleventh hour and forced a split of fifty-fifty, thus losing a chunk of money.

There is therefore nothing in what McVey and Mills say that can be taken as proof of a "cook up" in Havana, but it is interesting as showing the attitude of Johnson's own followers in his camp. Apparently they seem to feel that they were somehow double crossed.

McVey names as the four men that he thinks can beat Willard: Frank Moran, Georges Carpentier, Jim Coffey and Gunboat Smith, but of that quartet it is doubtful if more than one really has a chance against Big Jess.

A famous old-time sporting man who saw the Havana fight who listened to the McVeyian voice of suspicion today summed matters up very tersely when he said:

"I don't believe there was anything the matter with the battle, but—and here he stroked his chin—I have seen so many things happen in the prize ring that I wouldn't ever be surprised at anything that ever does happen."

Johnson Seeks to Enjoin Fight 'Movie Sniper'

HAVANA, April 2.—A "movie sniper," who eluded the vigilance of numerous scouts, ambushed Johnson and Willard at the battlefield on Monday last for the heavyweight championship of the world and obtained pictures of the contest.

This is the opinion of Jack Johnson, who, learning that films of some of the rounds of the fight were to be shown at several Havana theatres, started right out on the job to be termed an infringement of his property rights. He consulted the secret police and applied to the judge of the night court for an injunction.

ENTIRE SOUTH WILD OVER CHAMPION AS HE TRAVELS TOWARDS NORTH

By ED W. SMITH.

Well Known Referee and Fight Expert.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 2.—They certainly are strong for a white champion in the South. This trip of Jess Willard from Havana to New York is almost a parade. There is a cheering crowd at every station. The champion cannot even grab enough time to have the porter make up for every little burg wants a look and a speech.

The South has not been so stirred to such excitement in years as it has by the defeat of Jack Johnson. Shouting, screaming, excited people turn out at every stop, and no king could get a stronger reception than Willard. Jess got an ovation during the twenty minutes the train stopped here.

Willard is considerable of a kidder. Jim Savage, one of his sparring mates, bought a fighting chicken before he left Havana as a present for his father, who is chief of the Orange N. J., fire department and a fancier of the fighting cocks. Jim has the bird stowed away in the baggage car, and last night Willard slipped in and dropped an egg in between the bars the chef into the chicken's crate. Jim raised a terrible roar when he went into feed his fighting chicken this morning, but thought he had been cheated and you should see him above the noise of the train. Motion pictures films of the big battle are in bond on their way through the United States to Toronto. There the pictures will be developed and shown for the first time. The promoters are confident they will get a reversal of opinion on the present United States law against sending the films from one State to another. Herein lies the hope of tremendous profits.

Willard today accepted the first challenge offered him for the world's championship when he agreed to meet Frank Lyons, a former champion of Florida, a year hence.

Lyons is a policeman here, having left the prize ring four years ago. He matched himself with Willard during the latter's amateur experience in 1911, winning a decision over the champion, who was in thirty years old, six feet four and a half inches in height, weighs 275 pounds. He has a reach of half an inch over Willard. The local man was a member of Jeffries' training camp before the Reno fight and has appeared with Langford and Joe Jeannette.

"The Rabbit's Column"

By Walter J. Mannville

HORTSOPS OF THE BRAVES

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2.—We are in the capital today for a two-game series with the Senators. These tussles should give us plenty of competition, as Washington is represented by a fast ball club and possessed enough class to make things interesting for the best teams in the country. The Senators have a swell chance to win the American League pennant this year, as I have stated in this column before. The Red Sox look to have a little something on the rest of the field, but if Carrigan's men should fail to come through I believe that Washington will grab off the bunting.

* * *

The Senators should have a much better hurling staff this year than they had in 1914. Walter Johnson was then called upon to do the bulk of the work on the mound and when the veteran Kansan farmer failed to pitch up to his usual high stand Washington dropped in the league standing. Clark Griffith has been carefully grooming three or four young pitchers during the past few years. They have been working steadily in the box, but have lacked experience, and consequently could not be relied upon in crucial contests. These youngsters should be good this year, and if they are the team from this man's town will set a pretty lively pace for the other clubs in Ban Johnson's circuit.

* * *

We will probably receive an opportunity to give Walter Johnson a slants the once over, Johnson is a wonderful pitcher, but there are a couple of National League box men who are in his class. Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Phillies is every bit as good a pitcher as Johnson, if not better, and he has proved this year in our league, but this was because he received poor support from his teammates. If Alexander were with a strong club he would undoubtedly make a pitching record which would make us all dizzy.

* * *

We will probably receive an opportunity to see Alexander's benders the once over in our opening game of the season, which will be played with the Phillies at Fenway Park next Wednesday afternoon. Strange as it may seem, the Braves do not fear the mighty hurler. We admire his great ability, but always enter a game that he pitches confident in our ability to defeat him. We have a fighting team and always seem to play better baseball when we are opposed by a great ball club than we do when battling with a tail-end outfit which lacks a punch.

* * *

I have often been asked whom I considered the greatest man in the National League when it comes to working the hit and run play with a man on first base. In my opinion Charley Herzog, the hustling manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has a little something on the other National League players in this respect. Charley is a wonderful man to place his safe blows and seems to be able to put the sphere wherever he wants to.

* * *

The hit and run play is usually worked with a man on first base. The base runner starts for second as the pitcher starts to warm up and either the shortstop or second baseman runs to cover the bag. The batter then pushes the ball through the opening in the infield. The average infielder will start for the bag as soon as he sees that the base runner is on his way to second. This is especially true when the fielder plays a deep field and has to travel over considerable ground in order to reach second base. This gives the batter a chance to see where the opening in the infield is before the ball leaves the pitcher's hand.

* * *

When Herzog is batting with a man on first, the opposing shortstop and second baseman exercise great care in order not to be caught napping. The man who is to take the throw at second does not start for second until after the ball leaves the pitcher's hand. Herzog, however, has the wonderful ability to size up the situation at a glance. He is able to watch the shortstop, second baseman and the ball at the same time. If either of the infielders move towards second even while the ball is on its way to the plate, Charley is usually able to put the sphere through the hole in the field. He is also a sure hitter and this makes him of even more value while using this difficult play. American League players tell me that Eddie Foster of the Senators is a wonder at the hit and run play, but I do not believe that there is a man in baseball who has anything on Herzog in the respect.

Kirkpatrick Out for Position on Harvard Eleven

Orin G. Kirkpatrick, former Exeter football captain, is among the latest candidates for the Harvard gridiron team. Kirkpatrick was unable to play last Fall on account of an injury to his back.

Kirkpatrick is again beginning to display his great ability which made him famous as a schoolboy, and, unless something happens between now and next Fall, he should land a regular place on the eleven.

Yale offensive and defensive plays were practiced in a scrimmage on Soldiers' field yesterday. Extra precaution was taken to prevent injuries. The teams lined up as follows:

Team A.—L. B. Day, '17, center; D. Duncan, '16, and G. Johnston, '17, guards; H. C. Hartley, '17, and F. S. Reed, '17, tackles; C. H. Coolidge, '17, and H. Hall, '16, ends; J. H. Doherty, '16, quarterback; R. J. McKay, '16, and C. Woodruff, '16, halfbacks; H. Ward, '17, fullback.

Team B.—C. De Blasi, '18, centre; H. Westcott, '17, and W. Stevens, '18, guards; C. H. Kirkpatrick, '17, and H. H. Hadsell, '17, tackles; E. Eyre, '17, and D. Campbell, '17, ends; Murray Taylor, '18, quarterback; H. Sugar, '17, and H. Bowers, '18, halfbacks; [illegible], '18, fullback.

Jimmy Duffy Trims White in Fast Bout

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 2.—Jimmy Duffy paid $500 for being overweight, then beat Charley White of Chicago in the best lightweight battle of the year here. White knocked Duffy down for a count of eight in the first round, then Jimmy came back and dropped White for a count of five in the second.

CHARLESTOWN HAS MANY CANDIDATES

By DOC.

A large number of candidates have reported for the Charlestown High School baseball team. The boys will be coached by M. Fisher of the faculty and will start practice work at once on the Sullivan Square Playgrounds.

* * *

The strong schedule of games has been arranged for the Bunker Hill players. They will open the season on April 26, when they meet Hyde Park, on their home grounds. The last game of the season will be with Brighton High at Charlestown. The schedule follows:

April 26, Hyde Park at Charlestown; April 27, South Boston High at South Boston; April 30, West Roxbury High at West Roxbury; May 4, East Boston High at Charlestown; June 11, Hyde Park at Hyde Park; May 12, South Boston High at Charlestown; May 17, West Roxbury High at Charlestown; May 25, East Boston High at East Boston; June 8, Brighton High at Charlestown.

* * *

* * *

Coach James O'Brien, the Holy Cross captain of last year, is looking after the Cambridge boys and expects to develop a good team. Coach O'Brien has picked the following men to play in the opening game of the season: Charles Nealon, catcher; N. Garfield, first base; Thomas Dee, shortstop; S. Duffy, third base; F. Ash, centre field; Barry Mc-Mills, James Corry and Leslie Hill, pitchers.

* * *

S. B. Levine, manager of the Lawrence High School, has arranged the following schedule for the Mill City nine:

April 23, Methuen; April 28, open High Lawrence; April 30, Open; May 5, Gloucester; May 12, Nashua; May 15, Tilton at Laconia; May 18, Berea; May 22, Newburyport at Newburyport; May 26, Nashua at Nashua; May 29, Berea; June 2, Lowell at Lowell; June 5, Salem at Salem; June 9, Open; June 12, Lowell at Lowell; June 16, Lynn Classical at Lynn; June 9, Salem at Salem; June 23, Gloucester at Gloucester; June 26, Lowell; June 22, Lowell in case of no game.

The Needham High School baseball team will open its season Saturday on Greene's Field, Needham, in their annual contest with the Alumni nine. Nearly all last year's men are available, and several very promising recruits are in the squad.

* * *

Whitten and quinlan will do the twirling for the Needham boys, while Smith will be found on the slab in case of emergency. The bases will be taken by Freeman, Stanwood and Wyse, respectively, while Blades, Bleakney, Godfrey, Roper, Ryan and Wyse will handle the outfield. Captain Keith will probably play shortstop, and Smith catcher.

Several practice games have been scheduled as follows:

April 10, Acton at Needham; April 19, Framingham at Needham; April 24, Wellesley at Needham; April 28, Open; May 1, Framingham at Framingham; May 5, Wellesley at Wellesley; May 8, Open; May 12, Weymouth at Needham; May 15, Open; May 19, Weymouth at Weymouth; May 22, Framingham; May 31 morning, Wellesley at Needham; May 31 afternoon, Framingham at Framingham; June 5, Open; June 9, Wayland at Wayland; June 12, open; June 17, Sanford at Needham.

WRAY PICKS CREW FOR MIDDIES' RACE

Coach Wray of Harvard has determined upon the varsity eight which will oppose the first crew of the United States Military Academy in the first race of the season at Annapolis, April 24. The men will be seated in the craft in this order: Stroke, Lund; 7, Cabot; 6, Parson; 5, J. W. Middendorf; 4, Harwood; 3, Stebbins; 2, Morgan; bow, Murray (captain); cox, Kreger.

Lloyd Middendorf, Morgan and Kreger were members of the Grand Challenge Cup winners in the English Henley last Summer, while Parson, Harwood and Murray sat in the losing race with Yale. Cabot and Stebbins rowed in the 1913 crew.

Sunday, April 18, will be getaway day for the crew, when they take the Federal express in the afternoon. The days before the race will be taken up with daily rows on the Severn.

Eastern Clubs Appeal to Nat. Commission

Why the Past Must Be Revived

A FAITHFUL RECORD OF THE PAST UNROLLED IN THE WORLD'S MIGHTIEST SPECTACLE

The mistakes of the suffering past teach us to avoid the terrific pitfalls of the now present and the nearing future. If the people of Europe had known all that war meant before they began this terrific struggle, who believes but that they would never have entered upon it? Again, you must see this picture if for no other reason than that your mental machinery—in whatever line it may be working—must of necessity be stimulated to an amazing degree. So surprising, gigantic, thrilling a flash upon the emotions must necessarily recharge your entire self with radiant energy. Contrast your present peaceful and happy state with the terrific agony and suffering your fathers endured that you might enjoy your present happiness in peace and freedom. Boston, the Cradle of Liberty, will not refuse any art when it is clean and free from obscenity. The way to answer an argument is by another argument. No truth can thrive in an atmosphere that knows the word suppression.

"THE BIRTH OF A NATION"

A Plea for the Rights of the Drama

LOUIS SHERWIN, the Eminent Dramatic Critic of the N. Y. Globe, Writes:

These efforts to suppress "The Birth of a Nation" are absolutely against public policy, against the spirit of the constitution, against the very life and essence of what should be true American democratic ideas. The mere fact that it happens to show a few members of one of the races constituting the population of the United States in an unpleasant light is no argument whatever. If this factor is to be seriously considered, there is hardly any limit to which the censorship may not go. The entire question raises a most dangerous precedent. Our citizenry is composed obviously of extraordinarily numerous elements. If Africans are to have their say and oppose the production of a play (whether it be a spoken drama or on the screen) to which they object, why should not the Jews, Hungarians, Czechs, Teutons, French, Italians, Slavs, Scandinavians, Irish and Anglo-Saxons also have the same privilege? The prospect is appalling. If this film be suppressed, we shall simply be serving notice upon all moving picture and theatrical managers that they may only produce plays that are absolutely and unquestionably offensive to nobody. The consequence of that will be a thoroughly colorless, innocuous mediocrity, even worse than we have at present, and a general weariness. No sane person can pretend that there is any immoral suggestion in the film concerned.

U. S. SENATOR H. L. MYERS of Montana:

"The pictorial reproduction is the best and most entertaining which I have ever seen. I consider it of great historical, moral and intellectual benefit. I agree with the censorship report which you transmitted."

CONGRESSMAN E. W. SAUNDERS:

"I was sorry that I could not meet you in person in order that I might express the delight with which I witnessed the wonderful collection of moving pictures exhibited. There is nothing so fine in the moving picture world of today as this entertainment which you have provided for the pleasure and instruction of millions of your fellow-countrymen."

CONGRESSMAN ROBERT N. PAGE:

"I lack a great deal of being a movie fiend and I do not see a great many moving pictures, but this show is not only worth seeing because of the excellence of the pictures presented, but also because its educational value is extremely great."

CONGRESSMAN ROBERT L. DOUGHTON:

"I consider the play valuable, high-toned, instructive, highly educational in its character and worthy in every way of the great man who produced it."

CONGRESSMAN CHARLES R. CRISP:

"My wife and I greatly enjoyed seeing the play on 'The Birth of a Nation.' It is truly a wonderful production."

Progressive Citizens Will Support Mayor Curley in His Plan for a Great Public Terminal

Mayor Curley's announcement that he favors the PUBLIC OWNERSHIP of a great co-ordinating transportation terminal is gratifying to the AMERICAN and to all enlightened and progressive citizens.

The Mayor revealed in his interview in the AMERICAN last Sunday an enlightened view of this great transportation question in Boston, which is very encouraging indeed. The railroads of the country have broken down at their terminals. This is the statement of the greatest railroad man in America, and it accords with the information and experience of every one who knows much about the railroad question.

This is PARTICULARLY true of our New England railroads. While we permit the railroads to remain in private hands we are obliged to submit to the many disadvantages of competition, because in competition alone do we find the automatic regulation of these great public utilities which is so necessary to their efficient service. But independent operation of railroads at their termini, in a great city like Boston, has serious disadvantages, which can be best overcome by a great single terminal which will co-ordinate the service of the independent roads and of all the other transportation facilities in the district.

Few people knew, what Mayor Curley pointed out, that it takes longer to transport freight from one suburb of Boston to another than to transport it from Boston to Chicago; and it costs nearly as much. Converting the city into a vast transportation terminal, OWNED and controlled by the State, is not a dream, but a practical, feasible plan for which there is a great need today.

If Mayor Curley will bend his energies to a vigorous prosecution of this plan all good and intelligent citizens will support him loyally and energetically. WE WANT IT TO BE A STRICTLY PUBLIC ENTERPRISE. Any plan to make it an affair for private profit will end in failure. What the progressive cities in the world have proved able to do, BOSTON CAN DO JUST AS W[illegible]L.

The AMERICAN hopes that the Mayor will put his hand to the plow immediately and begin to turn the fertile soil of this proposition.

Postmaster Murray Proposes a Striking Plan to Reduce the Cost of Living

Postmaster Murray has developed a striking plan to utilize the Parcels Post for a reduction in the cost of living.

Mr. Murray proposes that the farmer shall send his products directly from the farm to the family which will consume them, avoiding the middleman's charges THAT ALMOST DOUBLE THE COST OF LIVING.

This seems to be an entirely feasible plan; and if it is, it will be one of the greatest steps toward the solution of one of the greatest problems which confronts the country.

During the campaign of the Boston Chamber of Commerce to relieve the farmers from the enormous crop of apples which the war left on their hands, it was discovered that there were three distinct middlemen's profits between the farmer and the ultimate consumer. These middlemen's profits constitute a large part of the total cost of a barrel of apples.

The committee of the Chamber analyzed the elements of cost in a $2.50 barrel of apples.

The cost of picking is from 18c. to 25c., and the cost of the barrel itself from 36c. to 42c; the cost of packing is about 25c. to 30c.; delivery to the car would on the average cost about 10c.; the freight to Boston will average about 25c.; the WHOLESALER'S COMMISSION about 20c.; the cost of cartage about 6c., and the JOBBER'S PROFIT about 25c.

Add to this the RETAILER'S PROFIT of 50 cents and we have a total of ninety-five cents for middlemen's profits, or nearly half the entire cost of the barrel of apples to the consumer.

The cost of a barrel of apples is typical of all the other necessaries of life. The commission appointed recently to investigate the causes of the rise in the cost of living, after a careful investigation, reported that it was mostly due to the middleman's profits.

We cannot blame the middleman for getting his profit. He renders a service which is necessary under our PRESENT system, and the AMERICAN does not say that he charges an extortionate price for his service. But the SYSTEM ITSELF is clumsy, unscientific and utterly unnecessary.

The National Government is now in a position, since it has gone into the express business, to relieve the situation. With its wonderfully organized Postoffice Department, it can easily become a middleman to the producers and consumers of America.

Thus we find the functions of our government expanding day by day, entering more and more into our life. Only a few years ago we witnessed the tremendous profits which the e[illegible] companies were making in business which ought to have done and is now being done by the National Government. Wh[illegible]t was proposed that the National Government go into the parcel post business, reactionaries everywhere denounced the proposition as socialistic. Today, who would return to the old conditions? It is true that the express companies and the railroads are insidiously working to prevent the Government from extending the parcels post business. But they are attempting to stand athwart the inevitable progress of civilization itself. They are little men without horizon blindly resisting an inexorable tendency, with their heads stuck in the sand.

The AMERICAN hopes that Mr. Murray will not desist from pressing his proposal

"The Vampire" and the Lesson It Teaches

By ELBERT HUBBARD

WALKING through the gallery of statuary in the Luxembourg I saw the white, nude figure of a man—a man in all the splendid strength of youth.

Standing behind him on a higher part of the pedestal was the form of a woman; and this woman was leaning over, her face turned toward him, her lips about to be pressed upon his.

I moved closer, and beheld on the face of the youth an expression of deathly agony. The muscles of that splendid body were tense with awful pain.

And in that one glance I saw the woman's body was the body of a fiend, that only her face was beautiful, and that the arms ended in claws that were digging into the vitals of the man as she drew his face to hers.

Suddenly feeling the need of fresh air, I turned and went out upon the street.

That piece of statuary gave Burne-Jones the suggestion for his painting, "The Vampire," and supplied Kipling inspiration for his poem.

* * *

Now, one might suppose from that awful sermon in stone that woman was the cause of man's undoing.

But for the benefit of misunderstood husbands I'll call attention to the fact that the men who have achieved most in literature, music, painting and pilosophy are men who knew from sad experience the sharpness of woman's claws—Socrates, Dante, Shakespeare, Rousseau, Milton, Wagner, Paganini, and so many more that it would require a book to name them.

Do all the "bad women" live in this quarter or that?

The police do not know, for they are but tools of that blind, blundering thing, the law; and the preachers, who conventionally bless certain things and curse others, lift an eyebrow and speak in affected, grieved surprise.

But the law of antithesis exists. The paradox lives. Life is a spiral. And possibly when all things are made plain we, who have glorified in women but a single virtue, will find that De Quincy was right, and that the woman who understands is the Magdalene, who from out the purging fires of purgatory completes the circle and arises purified, spotless, recognizing deity incarnate when all others blindly fall.

* * *

Man's search for love, and his need of love, have made him occasionally the prey, down the ages, of the selfish, cruel and designing woman.

And there are beastly men, just as there are ignoble women.

Neither sex has a monopoly on depravity.

Of course, we must admit that the men who have been flayed by women have usually been greatly helped by other women, and this sometimes accounts for the flaying.

Age's Greatest Prize, Dorothy Dix Shows, Is More Tolerant Views

Vision Cleared, Sympathies Broadened and Clearer Estimate of Values Given by Years; Youth, Color Blind, Too Often Sees Only Faults in Other Persons

By DOROTHY DIX

"THE great consolation prize that age has brought me," said the white haired woman who has grown old beautifully, "is tolerance, and the broader view of things, for somehow as I have grown older and my physical vision has dimmed and failed, the eyes of my spirit have grown clearer until I can see life not as a part, but as a whole.

"It is as if in youth I had stood in a valley too close to the people and things about me to get the right perspective on them, but in age I sit upon the mountain top and the whole panorama of human happenings is unrolled before me and I see how the one exists because of the other, how small are the things I once thought so great and important, and how everything tends to one great end.

"Youth is so narrow, so intolerant. It demands perfection. For a single fault youth condemns an individual and puts him beyond the pale.

"As we grow older we learn that no one is perfect, and no one wholly bad, and so we begin to take what is good in people, and enjoy it, and leave what is bad.

Age Broadens Sympathies and Gives to a Person Clearer Estimate of Values

"I sometimes smile to myself as I think over my list of friends, and remember how I should have scorned so many of them in my young days when I was so impatient of everything that didn't measure up to the highest standard. And it isn't because I have lowered my ideals. It is simply because I have come to have broader sympathies and to estimate values more justly.

"There's little Fifine, frivolous and brainless as a butterfly, to whom the most important thing in the world is to have the very latest cut in a gown and the extremest hat from Paris. Fifine never had a serious thought in her life. She's indiscreet. She neglects her husband, and her children, and her home.

"How I should once have condemned her! But I don't now, because I have found out that there never was a warmer or a more generous heart than beats under the imported gown that she's gone in debt for. If I want help, quickly and surely, for any needy person, the one I call on first is Fifine, and I never call in vain.

"And there's John, who has made his money in questionable ways, and who doesn't even understand what the word honesty means in the sense that I understand it. He's a man who has driven close bargains, who has taken all the short cuts to wealth, a hard, sordid money grabber that I should have once despised from the bottom of my heart.

"But I don't now, because I have seen him in his home as tender, and as patient to a querulous invalid wife as an angel could be. I know of the long nights that he sits by her bed ministering to her, and that because he will not trust her care to hired hands he denies himself every particle of recreation. He never even so much as goes to the theatre, or for an automobile ride, or a game of golf.

Mean Traits Can Be Overlooked When Good Qualities and Sacrifices Are Considered

"He spends his life vibrating between a sick room and the factory where he toils like a fiend. I know that the money that he wrests from others, often unfairly, he pours out like water on his wife, and because his soul is lit by a great love that has been capable of making a great sacrifice, I can overlook what is mean in him.

"And there's Sara, crabbed and cross-grained, whose tongue drops vitriol. Sara is malice and uncharitableness personified. She knows the worst of everybody—and tells it. She turns on those who try to help her, and stabs them to the heart with cruel speeches, born of envy.

"I am one of the very few friends she has in the world, and time and again she says things to me that in other days would have made me drop her. But I don't even get angry with her now when she makes one of her caustic speeches that turns a searchlight upon one of my pet weaknesses, for I know that Sara's life has been one long sacrifice on the altar of her family.

"She gave up the man she was to have married in her youth in order to support her old father and mother, and to give the younger children in the family a chance in life she never had. And since then there has always been a horde of hungry mouths to feed, nephews and nieces, always new babies being born to incompetents who couldn't support them, and the burden of it all falling on Sara's thin little shoulders. When I think of all that she has done, I don't see her as the termagant, the woman with the serpent's tongue. I see her as an uncrowned saint and martyr.

"And there's Charlie, handsome, debonair, mercurial, fascinating, a reed for every wind of passion to blow. Charlie married as nice a little woman as ever lived, and had three of the prettiest little children, and then, for no reason at all except his own wandering fancy he deserted his wife and children and decamped with another woman.

Age Clears Our Eyes So We Behold All Delicate Shades of Humanity

"Weak and unmanly, and recreant to duty, I grant you; but Charlie had his hour when he was a man, when a yacht on which there was a gay and half-drunken pleasure party struck the rocks, and seven times he went out to what seemed certain death to rescue those on board.

"And so it goes through a long list of people I know, each one with some redeeming trait, no matter how bad the rest of him or her is; and I get such joy and gladness out of them, because age has taught me how to mine for the gold and throw away the dross.

"Youth is color-blind. It sees only black and white. But age clears our eyes so we behold all of the delicate pastel shades in humanity. And that's what reconciles one to growing old."
